Medical.

Hoofland's German Bitters,
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.
The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

Hoofland's German Bitters
Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC
Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.
Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.
Those who have no objection to the combination of the Bitters, as stated, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.
They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.
The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing as closely as it does with the Stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:
Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heart-burn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.
The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigations and inquiries possesses true merit, is skilfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well-known remedies—
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
PREPARED BY Dr. C. M. JACKSON,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.
These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,
Resulting from any Cause whatever;
PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM,
induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, etc.
There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.
PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,
And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.
It is a well-established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.
To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN
Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.
Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.
HON. GEO. W. WOODWARD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Penna., writes:
Philadelphia, March 16, 1867.
"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD."

HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.
"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, I can certify this from my experience of it.
Yours, with respect,
JAMES THOMPSON."

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,
Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.
Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir:—I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.
Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates st.

FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL,
Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.
I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours, truly,
E. D. FENDALL.

TO MY MOTHER.

They tell me human love was made
Awhile to bloom, and then to fade
Before the autumn chill.
They tell me human love is sold—
A thing of traffic, bought with gold,
And subject to the will.

No falsehood this; and yet I own,
There is a love, one love alone,
With lustre ever bright,
It runs through all my changing years,
Forsakes me not in smiles and tears,
And fills my soul with light.

That love, beyond all other love,
Unselfish, pure as heaven above,
Is thine, dear mother, thine.
What, then, if clouds around me break!
The fount of joy they cannot take
From out this heart of mine.

Earth's merry throng may pass me by;
Its honors from my grasp may fly,
As leaves upon the blast:
I care not, if thou lov'st me still;
Thy love alone my heart can fill,
And hold it to the last.

I'll love thee till my latest breath;
I'll love thee when I'm clasped in death;
I'll love thee still on high.
While on my tide of life shall flow,
My love for thee no end shall know;
'Twill never, never die.

THROUGH THE SNOW.

Mrs. Tubbs—fifty, fat, and frosty, dressed in black satin and flowery cap—comes from her housekeeping room (where she has been consulting Betty, her cook,) into the study of Dr. Tubbs; her husband, up later than his amiable spouse, breakfasts leisurely, and reads his letters grimly, on this snowy Christmas morning. He is by no means a prepossessing-looking gentleman, though his coat is superfine and his waistcoat large.

"I've ordered Betty," says Mrs. Tubbs, sinking into a chair, "to make the fellow a small suet-dumpling—no plums or currants in it, Dr. Tubbs; and sent it with a rasher of bacon. The fat bacon, Dr. Tubbs; the ham-like lean I keep for the parlor; for if ushers will stop during the holidays where they ain't wanted, they must take the consequences."

"Of course, my dear," answered Tubbs, pompously, and at the same time winking terribly, (for he has a visional defect which always keeps his eyelids moving.) "Your remark is most judicious. Indeed, if the truth be spoken, even this prudential arrangement will be unnecessary; for I think of giving Gray notice at once, and getting rid of him this very morning. For—for—this getting-on-rapid system of his will never do. If it continues, Mrs. Tubbs, we shall soon cease to be master and mistress of Goshen House, for here's a letter from Bailey's father, praising his boy's rapid progress in arithmetic. Here's another from Wigget's uncle to say that Tom's general advance is excellent; and to crown all, here's a third letter, from the Rev. Dr. Pike, canon of Diddlebury cathedral, to say that his grandson's progress in the classics is remarkable (you'll remember, my dear, that there are four of these lads!) and that they've learnt as much Greek and Latin in the half year as at some schools they would have done in three years. Mind this, my dear! Now of course boys getting on this way will soon leave. Instead of having six years out of 'em apiece, two will be enough under such a forcing plan. There were the fieldings, too; why did they leave? Why, that they could draw trees well when they should have been still in lines and cubes. I've told Gray of all this, times and often: but—but," adds Dr. Tubbs, with pathetic dignity, "he minds me no more than those who call me, 'Old Winker.' He talks about 'moral honesty' and trash of that sort, instead of paying attention to my behests. So, as this is the case—and it don't do to let boys' education get on like a steam-engine—I'll dismiss him—and—this very morning. True, I must give some equivalent, as our arrangement was a month's notice on either side, and gratis board and lodging during the winter vacation. But better a lost pound than that this evil should make farther head."

"A pound! We shall save double that in the fellow's board. Why! it wants yet five weeks to the end of the vacation, and this—say at ten shillings a week—will be two pounds ten. Go and do it at once, Dr. Tubbs, while I dress for church. And make haste; we can drive off, and be spared the nonsense of 'good-byes.' On my way up stairs, doctor, I shall countermand the suet-dumpling!"

Not without some little hesitation when his wife's eye is off him—for his conscience, seared as it is, points how base his conduct is to one like Robert Gray—Dr. Tubbs draws certain sovereigns and shillings from his private drawer, and goes forth to the schoolroom, where, by a most economical scrap of fire, sits the gentlemanly usher. His slippered feet are on the hob, a little pocket Æschylus in his hand, a short pipe in his mouth; behind him lies the wide high schoolroom, beyond that the bare windows and the snowy Yorkshire landscape of wooded heights and barren moors.

"Faugh! smoke—smelling like a tavern!" are Dr. Tubb's introductory words; and then, taking a distant chair, he proceeds to business. It is soon effected—as most base things are—and to his infinite but secret chagrin, for he expected demur and entreaty, his usher's manner expressed that of relief and release. True, were the pompous pedagogue a reader of human hearts he might have detected one vibration of desolate despair cross the clear, bright manly eye when the first words of dismissal came; but it is gone like an electric flash, and he sees nothing before him but the serenity of self-reliant manhood. Hurrying over his gruff adieus, pocketing his receipt, and basely oblivious of all Gray's noble efforts to increase his school, which when he had come a year ago was sinking to the verge of ruin, the pompous and shallow pedagogue makes his exit, to go to church—a hollow conventionalist, not a sincere worshipper.

Resolute and brief as young men are, Gray gathers up his few books from off the schoolroom shelves, hastens up stairs, packs his portmanteau, and directs it to the nearest railway station; puts the rest of his things in a knapsack; and then, going downstairs, he scatters a few shillings amongst the servants, visits the old yard dog in his kennel, gives one look at the playground where he has passed so many sad and weary hours, and then goes his way, his knapsack on his shoulders, a good oaken stick in his hand. There are some worthy souls to speak to in this primitive Yorkshire village—the parish clerk, the cobbler, the carrier—then he hurries onward with a brisk step toward the moors, which lie so high and far away; they must be crossed to reach the railway by which he intends to go.

Turning by-and-by out of the more beaten highway, he proceeded down a lane with high banks and hedge-rows on either side. It lies deep in snow, though traversed by recent wheels, and winds away presently toward woodland and river scenery of exquisite beauty, though wreathed in snow and crisped by frost. Here is a cottage, old fashioned and substantial, an exquisite garden round it, and clothed with a glowing pyracanthus. The berries are massed in coronals; the leaves lie around in beds of richest green. But the windows—at least toward the lane—are shuttered; no one seems keeping Christmas within.

But as Robert Gray leans upon the paling, looking toward a little window that now is a bowery with scarlet and green—in summer with the myriad waxen trumpets of the yellow jasmine—a man plods by and touches his hat.

"If yer a wanting Mr. Watson, Sir," he says, "you won't find him at home to-day. Him and the misses be gone to see their youngest son. Old Tab, the maid, 's minding house; but she's up stairs dressing I dus say now."

"Well, Mr. Watson deserves a holiday. Gone for long?"

"No! I reckon they'll be home to-morrow. Miss Marianna, the daughter, ain't wi' 'em. She's gone to Master Fielding's across the moors, to keep holiday wi' the children. She's a partic'lar favorite there—a sort o' coosin to th' missis."

So saying, Hodge again touches his hat, and proceeds.

When the honest fellow is out of sight, Gray opens the gate gently and steals in.—Then from the before-mentioned bowery window he cuts a spray of pyracanthus with his pocket-knife, and coming forth again, hurries away like one guilty of a serious sin. When he is far out of sight of the cottage, on his path again to the highway, he looks at it long and tenderly, and then opening his knapsack, lays it within. This shall go with him far and far away; it grew about her bowery window—she whom he has met once or twice in country homes—she whom he has spoken to a few times—she whom he has looked upon and loved.

Like a man who has accomplished a mission, he now walks steadily onward, regains the highway, and begins the ascent toward the moors—to the lower ones, which lie at the base of the higher and more remote. Deeper became the snow, wilder the scene, neither man nor bird nor beast giving life to the whitened waste. By-and-by he comes to a few solitary homesteads, and beyond these to a lonely graveyard, where the dead sleep eternally amid the great hush of nature. He must pause a moment, for here lies a poor school-boy who died of cold and fever. Gray nursed him, Gray loved him, Gray cannot turn him away—perhaps forever—without saying farewell to the insentient dust.

As he diverges to the gate of entrance into this lone burial-ground, a middle-aged gentleman comes toward it, from the rear of the small thatched church, and striving to undo the latch, cannot; his finger may be cold. He may have entered the graveyard by some other route. For days there has been no passer-in. Be this as it may, the gentleman cannot make egress. Gray hurries forward, and from his side undoes the latch.

"Thank you," says the gentleman, raising his hat, "a courtesy is always pleasant, even on a lonely Yorkshire moor. I thank you—a happy christmas—good day." He is a handsome, thoughtful man of middle life; his hair just touched with gray, his manner prompt, his words curt, like one whose dealings are many with men and the world. Perhaps he is a Yorkshire manufacturer—who knows?—many have factories in the hollows of these moors—rich, exact, earnest men—gathering whole populations round them, and making steam their willing slave.

When the stranger is out of sight Gray passes in, and following the footsteps in the snow, they led him to the simple gravestone at the rear of the church, off which the snow has been recently brushed; on it is recorded the death of two old persons—man and wife—who died some five years before. Their names were Fielding; their married life a long one, considering the years they lived.

"I thought as much," says Gray to himself; "that gentleman was Mr. Fielding, the rich spinner, and this the grave of his father and mother. I have heard that he was as noble a son as he is a noble father, husband, master and man. Yes! I thought there was a likeness in his face to the boy who came to Tubbs' to be taught drawing, half a year ago. How often does the prosaic hide the depths of a poetic nature! This is his visit to his parents' grave, on the anniversary of their death; and who knows of what worth such visitation and self communion may be? The virtues of a year may be shown thus in a single hour."

Gray passes on to the schoolboy's solitary grave. No reverent feet have visited it, no reverent hand scraped off the dazzling snow. The marks where the little redbreasts have hopped across it are plainly visible, and yet it is not solitary; the wind sings a dirge, the snow presses downily, and at night the moonlight sweeps over it and silvers it with glory. Under the arch of heaven no single thing but what has some hymn sung to it—some tears wept over it by nature.

The poor usher resumes his walk presently, for he has far to go. The cold is benumbing, the snow deeper, yet he presses on; and he stops to find a small flask in the pocket of his outer coat; from this he sips a drop of brandy, (it holds but very little) and then plods on. The day begins to fade—the distance is yet considerable—he grows anxious.

At length the moor dips downward into a valley, and beyond this is the higher, bleaker, lonelier moor, across which lies the station he wishes to reach; through the valley sweeps a vast water-power, and here stands the wondrous mill, in which daily work three thousand people, employed by John Fielding, the great cotton lord. But the mighty giant of the spindle and loom sleeps to-day, the fires are low, and labor rests her hands! Some miles from the mill the mansion of the cotton lord stands embosomed in the woods, and here at the foot of the fell is a cluster of cottages.

Descending to one of these, he asks a woman standing at a door nearest the way to the opposite fell.

"Why, cross the beck by the bridge, and take the road afore shee, But eh, sir! it's coming on a wild night for the moors; and now I'm thinking, if ye go by Graystones—Mr. Fielding's park anent there—you'd find it more sheltered like, and a bit nigher still. You can't miss the way, if you keep this side the beck to the mill; then cross it, and a bit beyond get into the park by the style; the path then'll take you by Graystone-pool—a mighty piece of water, all frozen over now—and towards the end leads up the way on the moors. You can't miss it, though it's coming on a wild night, I fear."

Gray hurries on, passes the mill, the mill-hands' cottages—almost all of them tenantless to-day—finds his way to the pool, and so to its farthest side nearest the moor. As he approaches the road leading thereto, he sees a man dressed as a servant standing on the bank, as though attending three or four boys, who are skating up and down the pond. They're all of them fine, handsome, athletic lads, and Gray knows them to be his old drawing pupils, the Fieldings.—Though he has no intention of approaching them, for they are skating some distance from where he has to turn off, he cannot refrain from staying a moment to watch them. As he does so, a bell at the hall rings loud and clear; its echoes are taken up in the solemn moors, and re-echoed back again.

"Gentlemen," calls the servant, "there is the first dinner bell; you had better return now."

They prepare as it seems to obey by skating towards the shore; and Gray turns away not willing to be recognized and detained, for he feels desolate and low in heart. For him no welcoming feast is spread, no ear listens for him, no eye expects him. Snow before him, snow behind him—a sad and solemn Christmas to him. Yet the snows of winter hide the buds of spring, and out of our sorrows our truest joys are often born.

He has turned his face and steps away from the pool towards the moor, when a crash, followed by awful cries, met his ear. Looking round, hurrying towards the pool, he sees that the tallest youth in skating towards the shore had ventured on dangerous ice; it cracked, and he fell through. He is now struggling in the water—his head above it, his hands battling with the ice; while his brothers, hastening to his rescue, seem in peril too. The poor, demented servant—a coward, perhaps, by nature—stands on the shore wringing his hands and shouting.

At a dozen athletic bounds Gray reached the spot. In another moment he has thrown off his coat, hat, and knapsack.

"Stephen! Walter! Falkland!" he calls; "don't attempt that; I'll come to Harry's rescue." Even while he speaks he dashes way across the ice, goes through it, is in the pool, not a minute too soon—the lad is spent and benumbed with cold—is sinking.

"A brave heart, Harry—a hand here—there, now my arm's around—you bear up. I'm Gray, your old drawing master." Holding the lad's hand above water, swimming dexterously, battling with the ice, in an anxious moment or two he has reached the shore. Having heeded Gray's warning, the other boys are safe too, and now crowd around.

"Harry is not much the worse," says Gray, kindly, as the spent and benumbed lad leans on him and begins to recover. "A near chance; but a drop of brandy, with a run home, and a warm bath, will set him all right. Walter, feel in my coat pocket; you'll find my brandy flask; it holds but a drop, but it'll do good." So saying, when the flask is found Gray makes Harry take what it holds, and then hurries him off home.

"But you'll come, Gray," says Stephen, who is the next eldest to Harry, "papa will never forgive us if you don't come, after having saved us our dear Harry. We always liked you, Gray, and were talking of you this very morning. Come on; you are dripping like a dog."

"Thank you; I want to be at —— station by eight o'clock to-night, and at Leeds to-morrow, so I can,t' I have dry undergarments in my knapsack here, which I can change in that todder shed yonder. Good-by, I want to cross the moor before it is too late."

"The moor, Gray! Why you'll will have a hard fight with the snow. Our shepherds report it is very deep. But why are you tied for a few hours?"

"I have left Tubbs: I taught too fast for him: but if I reach Leeds by to-morrow I may get a tutorship; for there was an advertisement relating to one in the last paper. So run home, Stephen, I'll write to you from thence."

Gray does not stay for any reply; but, seizing his coat and knapsack, hurries to the distant shed; here he changes his shoes and other garments, and then, to get warm, sets off at a run, as soon as he had dressed and swung his knapsack on. Up the snowy road, by the moorland crags, on the moor itself—a wild, wide waste of whitened desolation.

Yet some traffic through the day makes the road sufficiently for it to be easy to find, while light lasts and the snow holds off; he keeps on at a rapid pace, for the whole distance now to traverse is but some six miles, and he is not without hope that it will be easily effected. But presently the snow drifts get deeper, and baffle him more and more at every step. The clouds charged with snow bring day suddenly to a close; and at last it begins to snow heavily, as though the clouds had burst. Still he kept his way, not without hope. But when the road becomes more and more indistinct, when the rising wind whirls it round and round, when the cold becomes so intense as to benumb him, even while he moves, then he regrets his folly of having slighted the kindly invitation of Mr. Fielding's house. But Gray is a proud man; he has had the birth and education of a gentleman, and he cannot go fawining anywhere, uninvited, like a beggar.

At last, hopeless of regaining the track, thoroughly spent, and growing drowsy, he sits down on a crag; the storm whirling round him and freezing his blood. Then he closed his eyes, lost in that dreamy euthanasia which precedes death from cold. From this he is aroused by something warm and wet touching his hand—something lying heavy on his knee. Reluctantly—almost with difficulty—he asserts sufficient will and volition to open his eyes; and then he sees a shepherd's dog which rests it paws upon his knees and licks his hand. At the same the moment a loud holloa is heard. With still more difficulty than he had in opening his eyes, he makes a faint reply, for he is conscious the rescue is at hand. It is scarcely uttered before a shepherd casts back the blinding snow and stands before him.

"If you please, sir, you must come with us. As soon as he heard of the matter, Mr. Fielding sent me and another off, with a horse and the dogs, on the moor after you; for no one, he knew, could live out such a night."

But Gray could only faintly speak. So the shepherd's assistant now coming up with the horse, they place him on it, give him some whisky they have with them, and one mounting behind, so as to hold the benumbed gentleman, the other leads the way back to Graystones. But the way is hard to find, the snow so blinds and baffles them, so lies in monstrous drifts, and the cold is so benumbing; yet through this desolate waste they get at last, and by eight o'clock reach the hall.

There, in the wide porch, a whole group of sympathizing friends welcome the poor gentleman. He cannot talk much, but he replies to the pressure of their warm and kindly words.

"There, take my arm and lean on me," says the same gentleman for whom Gray opened the gate of the little lonely burial-ground this very morn; "you have twice served me to-day—once in a manner irreparable—so let me serve you in turn." Thus saying, Gray is led up stairs to a chamber, where a warm bath and and dry clothes await him. Cherished and refreshed he lies on a sofa, and has soup and wine and other restoratives. These taken, he sinks into a sleep. When he wakes it is ten o'clock or more, yet he finds Mr. Fielding seated besides him.

"God ever love and save you, sir," he says, taking Gray's hand, "for to you I owe the life of my priceless boy. I can never repay you, for they have told me all—your bravery, your goodness—everything. But you must not leave us, Mr. Gray, not for a long time. It was I who advertised in the last Leeds newspaper, for my boys want a master, and you were the one I thought of, and should have liked; but I did not know you were leaving that mean, pompous, shallow hypocrite, Tubbs. Make your mind happy, sir; you have a home here; to-morrow we will talk of money affairs; but be sure, even when your office ends, you shall find me a sincere friend. Now, do you think you are strong enough to come down and see the Christmas tree and Sir Roger de Coverley danced? Mrs. Fielding and all my people want to thank you too."

Oh! yes, he is strong enough; for shall he not see the pretty Marianna, the idle of his dreams!

So they go down arm-in-arm together, and Mrs. Fielding and all the guests are earnest and warm in saying grateful and kindly words; and there is Marianna, a little tremulous and timid; and still more so, when Gray gives her off the Christmas tree a small needle-book, on which is finely wrought, "Love me and I'll love thee."

Gray sits down besides one of the glowing fires, while they dance Sir Roger de Coverly. But by-and-by she leaves the dance and sits down besides him,

"I was sorry for you, Mr. Gray," says she, "thinking of you on the black moor."

"Were you? that is good news, Marianna. Before I ascended the moor I had had a long walk. I had been past a certain cottage, and cut off a spray of its ruddy pyracanthus; it is now up stairs in my wallet. But I am going to stay here as tutor. It is a piece of richer fortune than I thought of, particularly if the little one, whose face I first saw besides those cottage window-pains, is glad."

She does not answer, but lays her hand in his (all the rest of the folks are mad, dancing Sir Roger,) and looks up with tear-dimmed eyes in his.

So he came through the snow; for this and this: he is no longer desolate, but, richly loved.

By sorrows we are baptised to holier duties and to happier lives.

A BOY'S COMPOSITION ON CORNS.—Corns are of two kinds, vegetable and animal. Vegetable corn grows in rows, an animal corn grows on toes. There are several kinds of corn; there is the unicorn, capricorn, corn-dodgers, field corn, and toe corn, which is the corn you feel the most. It is said, I believe, that gophers like corn, but a person having corns don't like to "go far," if he can help it. Corns have kernels, and many colonels have corns. Vegetable corn grows on ears, but animal corn grows on the feet, or the other end of the body. Another kind of corn is acorn. These grow on oaks but there is no hoax about the corn. The acorn is a corn with an indefinite, but the toe corn is a very different article indeed. Try it and see. Many a man, when he has a corn, wishes it was an acorn. Folks that have corns sometimes send for a doctor, and if the doctor himself is corned, he won't probably do so well as if he isn't. The doctor says that corns are produced by tight boots or shoes, which is probably the reason why when a man is tight they say he is corned. If a farmer manages well he can get a good deal of corn on one acre, but I know of a farmer that has one corn that makes the biggest acher on his farm. The bigger crop of vegetable corn a man raises the better he likes it, but the bigger crop of animal corn he raises the better he don't like it. Another kind of corn is corn-dodger. The way it is made is very simple, and is made as follows (that is if you want to know): You go along a street and meet a man that you know has corns, and is a rough character; then you step on the toe that has the corn on it, and see if you won't have occasion to dodge. In that way you will find out what a corn-dodger is.

"THAT man who pays more for his rent than for his advertising does not know his business." This maxim of an experienced and successful merchant is incontrovertible. It matters less to have a fine store than that every body should know where it is and what is in it, It is poor policy to put a couple of hundred thousand dollars in a building and then stop. One store is no better than another except so far as more customers enter it, and it is advertising which brings customers to one merchant or dealer rather than another. The time is coming, and coming soon, when advertising will be the heaviest expenditure in carrying on any business, and it will bebcome so because it will be the most remunerative.

If advertising in thus the soul of business it will not take a very long argument to prove to a clear brain that the very hour business begins to flag, then is the moment to apply the stimulus of increased and more vigorous advertising.

IT is altogether too absurd to say that "Man is not perfect." Who is there that has not met with many who were perfect strangers, and some who were perfect rascals, and not a few who were perfect fools?

THE GHOST ROBBER.

On a fine evening in the spring of 1830, a stranger, mounted on a noble looking horse, passed slowly over the snow-white limestone road leading through Black Forest.

Just as the sun was going to rest for the day, when the gloomy shadows were beginning to stalk, he drew rein, as he said—

"This must be near the spot, surely. I'll stop here, any how, for awhile, and see what I can learn."

He thereupon dismounted and entered the parlor of the inn, where he sat down before a small table.

"How can I serve you, meinheer?" said the landlord.

"See to my horse outside," replied the guest carelessly, but at the same time eyeing the landlord from head to foot; "and let me have some wine—Rhine will do."

The landlord was turning to withdraw from the stranger's presence, when he stopped and said—

"Which way, meinheer, do you travel?"

"To Nanstadt," replied the guest.

"You will rest here to-night, I suppose," continued the landlord.

"I will stay here for two or three hours, but I then must be off, so as to reach my destination there in the morning. I am going to purchase lumber for the market."

"And you have considerable money with you, no doubt?" asked the landlord innocently.

"Yes, considerable," replied the guest, sipping at his wine disinterestedly.

"Then, if you'll take my advice," said the landlord, "you'll stay here till morning."

"Why?" replied the stranger, looking up curiously.

"Because," whispered the landlord, looking around as if he were disclosing a great secret, and was afraid of being heard by somebody else, "every man that passes over this road between this and Nanstadt at midnight, for the last ten years, has been robbed or murdered under very singular circumstances."

"What were the circumstances?" asked the stranger, putting down his glass empty, and preparing to fill it again.

"Why see," the landlord went on, while he approached his guest's table and took a seat. "I have spoken with several who have been robbed, and all I could learn from them is that they remember meeting, in the lonesome part of the wood, something that looked white and ghastly, and that frightened their horses so that they either ran away or threw their riders; they felt a chocking sensation and a sort of smothering, and finally died, as they thought, but awoke in an hour or so to find themselves lying by the roadside robbed of everything!"

"Indeed," ejaculated the stranger, looking abstractly at the rafters in the ceiling, as though he was more intent upon counting them than he was interested in the landlord's story.

The inkeeper looked at him in astonishment. Such perfect coolness he had not witnessed for a long time.

"You will remain then?" suggested the landlord, after waiting some time for his guest to speak.

"I?" cried the stranger, starting from his fit of abstraction, as though he was not sure that he was the person addressed. "Oh, most certainly not; I'm going straight ahead, ghost or no ghost, to-night."

Half an hour later, the stranger and a guide, called Wilhelm, were on the road, going at a pretty round pace toward Nanstadt.

During a flash of lightning the stranger observed that his guide looked very uneasy about something, and was slackening his horse's pace as though he intended to drop behind.

"Lead on," cried the stranger, "don't be afraid."

"I'm afraid, I cannot," replied the person addressed, continuing to hold his horse in until he was now at least a length behind his companion. "My horse is cowardly, and unmanageable in a thunder storm. If you will go on though, I think I can make him follow close enough to point out the road."

The stranger pulled up instantly. A strange light gleamed in his eyes, while his hand sought his breast pocket, from which he drew something. The guide saw the movement and stopped also.

"Guides should lead, not follow," said the stranger, quietly, but with a firmness which seemed to be exceedingly unpleasant to the person addressed.

"But," faltered the guide, "my horse won't go."

"Won't he?" queried the stranger, with mock simplicity in his tone.

The guide heard a sharp click, and saw something gleam in his companion's right hand. He seemed to understand perfectly, for he immediately drove spurs into his horse's flanks, and shot ahead of his companion without another word.

He no sooner reached his old position, however, than the stranger saw him give a sharp turn to the right and then disappear, as though he had vanished through the thick foliage of the trees that skirted the road.

He heard the clatter of his horse as he galloped off. Without waiting another instant, he touched his horse lightly with the reins, gave him a prick with the rowels, and off the noble animal started like the wind in the wake of the flying guide.

The stranger's horse being much superior to the other's, the race was a short one, and terminated by the guide being thrown nearly from his saddle by a heavy hand which was laid upon his bridle, stopping him.

He turned in his seat, beheld the stranger's face, dark and frowning, and trembled violently as he felt the smooth, cold barrel of a pistol pressed against his cheek.

"This cursed beast almost ran away with me," cried the guide, composing himself as well as he could under the circumstances.

"Yes, I know," said his companion, dryly, "but mark my words, young man, if your horse plays such tricks again, he'll be the means of seriously injuring his master's health."

They both turned and cantered back to the road. When they reached it again, and turned the heads of their animals in the right direction, the stranger said to his guide, in a tone which must have convinced his hearer as to his earnestness—

"Now, friend Wilhelm, I hope we understand each other for the rest of the journey. You are to continue on ahead of me, in the right road, without swerving either to the right or to the left. If I see you do anything suspicious, I will drive a brace of bullets through you without a word of notice. Now push on."

The guide had started as directed, but it was evident from his mutterings that he was alarmed at something besides the action of his follower.

In the meantime the thunder had increased in its violence; and the flashes of lightning had become more frequent and more blinding.

For a mile the two horsemen rode on in silence; the guide keeping up to his directions to the letter, while his follower watched his every movement, as a cat would watch a mouse.

Suddenly the guide stopped and looked behind him. Again he heard the click of the stranger's pistol and saw his uplifted arm.

"Have mercy, meinheer," he groaned; "I dare not go on."

"I give you three seconds to go on," replied the stranger, sternly. "One!"

"In heaven's name, spare," implored the guide, almost overpowered with fear, "look before me in the road and you will not blame me."

The stranger looked. At first he saw something white standing motionless in the centre of the road, but presently a flash of lightning lit up the scene, and he saw that the white figure was indeed ghastly and frightful enough looking to chill the blood in the veins of even the bravest man. If his blood chilled for a moment, therefore, it was not through any fear that he felt for his ghostly interceptor, for the next instant he set his teeth hard while he whispered between them just loud enough to be heard by his terror-stricken guide—

"Be it man or devil—ride it down—I'll follow. Two."

With a cry of dispair upon his lips the guide urged his horse forward at the top of his speed, quickly followed by the stranger, who held his pistol ready in his hand.

In another instant the guide would have swept past the dreadful spot, but at that instant the report of a pistol rang through the dark forest, and the stranger heard a horse gallop off through the woods riderless.

Finding himself alone, the stranger raised his pistol, took deliberate aim at the ghostly murderer, and pressed his finger upon the trigger.

The apparition approached quickly, but in no hostile attitude. The stranger stayed his hand. At length the ghost addressed him in a voice that was anything but sepulchral:

"Here, Wilhelm, ye move out of your perch this minute and give me a helping hand; I've hit the game while on the wing, haven't I?"

The stranger was nonplussed for a moment, but recovering himself, he grumbled something unintelligible and leaped to the ground. One word to his horse and the brave animal stood perfectly still. By the snow-white trappings on the would-be ghost he was next enabled to groupe his way in the dark toward that individual, whom he found bending over the black mass about the size of a man on the road.

As the tiger pounces upon his prey, the stranger leaped upon the stooping figure before him, and bore it to the ground.

"I arrest you in the King's name," cried the stranger, grasping his prisoner by the throat and holding him tight. "Stir hand or foot until I have you properly secured, and I'll send your soul to eternity."

This was such an unexpected turn of affairs that the would-be ghost could hardly believe his own senses, and was handcuffed and stripped of his dagger and pistol before he found breath to speak.

"Are you not my Wilhelm?" he gasped.

"No landlord," replied the individual addressed, "I am not. But I am an officer of the King, at your service, on special duty to do what I have to-night accomplished.—Your precious son Wilhelm, who you thought was leading an innocent sheep to the slaughter, lies in the road, killed by his father's hand."

Two weeks later, at Bruchsale prison, in Baden, the landlord of the sign of the Deer and the Ghost Robber of the Black Forest, who was the same identical person, having been proven guilty of numerous fiendish murders and artfully contrived robberies, committed at different times in the Black Forest, paid the penalty of his crimes by letting fall his head from the executioner's axe, since when travelling through Schwartsald has not been so perilous to life and purse, nor has there been seen any Ghostly Knihgt of the Road in that section of the world.

INSTINCT WITHOUT BRAINS.—Long ago it was ascertained by naturalists that worms and insects are without brain, and yet they pursue a course of activity which bears much upon the domain of reason; so we are accustomed to say that they act from instinct, which is no explanation at all of the phenomena in higher orders of organic life which have their origin in the brain. If that organ is severely injured, so that its normal functions are no longer performed, consciousness and orderly manifestation of its influence are interrupted or suspended. But the instinct world swarms with beings of the most delicate construction, without hearts and without brains, whose movements and habits, independently of thousands of contingencies to which they are exposed, prove in the most satisfactory manner that their acts are a near approach to the elements of a reasoning faculty, if they do not indicate reason itself. When, by accident, a thread of the spider's web is broken, the little weaver examines the misfortune with extreme care, and by taking different positions, surveys the damage, and then proceeds artistically to repair it by splicing or inserting an entire new cord.—Again when a wandering fly becomes entangled in a net, the cautious approach of the owner of the trap, lying patiently near by for the game, indicates calculation in regard to the character and strength of the victim. Does it not strangely resemble reason when all its movements, under such an aspect of affairs, show beyond a doubt the spider considers the matter in all its relations before venturing to seize the prey. And yet spiders are without a brain.

THE editor of the Central Christian Advocate, a Methodist Journal published in St Louis, thus speaks of U. S. Grant: "His great modesty, his wonderful capacity as a military leader, his indomitable perseverance, and his surprising success are known to the country and to the world.—We confess that our admiration of the man has increased all the time since we first saw him, and that we share with the soldiers of the army in feelings of devotion to him.—Aside from anything we may respect in politics, we regard Gen. Grant as about the first man in the nation. If the Democratic party shall nominate a man as worthy as he we shall be glad."

Of Colfax he says: "He has deserved the honors showered upon him. He is a noble man, true to his convictions of right, true to his friends, true to humanity. He has more warm personal friends than any man in the United States. He is loved and honored by the best people in country.—His character is stainless, his abilities equal to any demand the country may make.—Knowing him well as we do, we congratulate our friends upon the nomination for once of a pure-minded, excellent man for the Vice-Presidency."

CHOOSE WELL.—The line of conduct chosen by a young man during the five years from fifteen to twenty, will, in almost every instance determine his character for life. As he is then careful or careless, prudent or improvident, industrious or indolent, truthful or dissimulating, intelligent or ignorant, temperate or dissolute, so will he be in after years; and it needs no prophet to cast his horoscope, or calculate his chances in life.

"Na, na," said the boatman, "the little ane can pray if he like, but the big ane can take an oar."

ENLARGEMENT.

We issue the "STAR & SENTINEL" to-day, considerably enlarged. The addition of a full column to each page, and the lengthening of the columns, enables us to give additional matter each week equal to about SIX COLUMNS. We have made this enlargement partly to relieve the press on our advertizing columns, but mainly to give our readers a larger amount of reading matter. We are glad to say that our efforts to present our patrons with a first-class family journal—thoroughly loyal to the principles of the Republican party, but carefully excluding the gross personalities which too frequently characterize partizan controversy—seem to be appreciated. A little over a year ago we started with a much larger circulation than ever before attained by any paper in Adams county, which has been regularly increasing—the last few months alone having brought us nearly one hundred new subscribers. It is our purpose to spare neither labor nor expense to merit the confidence and liberal patronage of our friends, and we shall make such additional improvements in the future as circumstances demand.

We need scarcely say that this enlargement cost us considerably in the purchase of additional material, and will necessarily largely increase the cost of publication, in additional labor, paper, &c., and we will be under obligations to our friends for a prompt liquidation of their subscriptions and other accounts.

PAY UP!

The enlargement of our paper and the purchase of a new Press, Type, &c., has cost us over $1,000. We have besides several heavy paper bills now due, and we are compelled to call upon our friends to furnish us with the means wherewith to meet them. We have a large amount due us for subscription, Job-work, Advertising, &c., which we would like to realize at once, without the necessity of making out bills. The cash system has become a necessity in the newspaper business. We have to pay cash for everything connected with the office—Paper, Type, Ink, Labor, &c., and that we may do so promptly, without involving the office, it is absolutely necessary that our patrons pay us with equal promptness. We dislike to dun but our present wants demand it. Will those indebted to us please take the hint?

TO SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS.

We have, on the whole, a clever prompt paying list of subscribers, who make it a point to gladden the Printer by punctual advance payments of their subscriptions. On examining our list, however, we find quite a number, who are in arrears. Our terms are $2 CASH IN ADVANCE. The last few years have effected an entire revolution in the newspaper publishing business—the credit system being abolished by paper, type and ink manufacturers. Publishers being required to pay cash for everything, can no longer afford to carry on their lists any but prompt paying subscribers—least of all dead-heads. We desire to have a clear, clean list of prompt paying patrons, and to this end it is our purpose shortly to revise our list, dropping all who do not manifest a purpose to pay up.

We have a few on our list who were indebted to the former Proprietors.—We have now furnished the "STAR & SENTINEL" for more than a year, and we hereby give notice to all of this class, who do not remit to the present proprietors the amount of subscription for the past year, by the 1st of September next, that their names will be dropped without further notice.

THE Somerset County Copperheads will present Hon. A. H. Coffroth for nomination for Congress. The Bedford county Cops recommend B. F. Meyers, of the Bedford Gazette. Fulton county will name George A. Smith, Esq., of McConnellsburg. Franklin has no ambitious sons, but Adams will, most probably nominate Wm. McSherry, Esq.

BOTH the Senators from Florida have taken their seat in the U. S. Senate; and, horrible to relate, they sit on the Republican side! The new Representative does the same thing in the House. That's what's the matter with Congressional Reconstruction!

[illegible] CONVENTION IN NEW YORK.

The New York Convention has been the centre of attraction during the past week. It abounded in the old fossils who, in former years, bound the Democratic Party to the fortunes of the Secession politicians of the South; and its roll recalls the lists of the Rebel Congress and the Rebel Army.

Forrest, the hero of the Fort Pillow massacre, was there, the idol of the Democracy of Tennessee. Wade Hampton was there, from South Carolina, backed by Bonham who left his seat in Congress to accept a Commission in the Rebel army, by Gens. Kershaw, and Simonton, and by Judges Inglis and Aldrich who voted for the Secession of the State because they hated the Union. Vance was there from North Carolina, with a body guard of men who left places in the Union Army and Union Congress to fight against the flag to which they had sworn to be faithful. Bocock, of Virginia, Speaker of the Rebel House of Representatives, was fittingly present, as was Barnwell Rhett of South Carolina who has for over twenty years been an avowed disunionist, and was eagerest of the eager in 1861 to pull down the temple of the Republic. Not a conspicuous Rebel was absent except Davis who is under indictment, Stephens who was busy at home defending some Secessionists against the charge of murdering a leading Republican "to get rid of him," and Breckenridge who was awaiting the proclamation of amnesty, issued on the 4th, which will permit his return. Of such were the Southern Delegations—men whose hands are covered with blood, whose souls are black with guilt, whose hearts are vindictive with hate, and whose association should be spurned by every man who loves his country.

But Tammany Hall welcomed them, because they all have a common cause—the overthrow of the men who protected the country from Rebel assaults, and the restoration to its Government of the malicious and black-hearted men who are the guilty cause of all our woes.

Of the Northern wing of the Convention, what need we say further than that it included Bigler, Clymer and Woodward of Pennsylvania; Church, Tilden and Seymour of New York, and the whole tribe of Northern doughfaces who had not a word to offer for their country when in peril, but whose sympathies and efforts were all with its enemies? The Southern side of the Convention were fighting Rebels; the Northern side, their sneaking sympathizers.

FROM a body thus constituted,—with the treasonable element dominant and represented in its most daring advocates—the loyal people of the nation could expect little good, either in utterance or action. A so-called "Conservative Soldier's Convention," held sessions at the same time as a kind of side show—the latter from time to time sending messages to the simon-pure Copperhead body, affirming their readiness to do any dirty work required, and vote for anything and every thing the Convention might put up. Still there were discordant elements, and it took the Committee on Resolutions Saturday, Sunday and Monday to cook up a platform, the Convention adjourning from day to day. The Committee finally on Tuesday morning made report, which, under the previous question, was put through—no debate being allowed.

The web and woof of this platform is REPUDIATION. Three several planks, in as many different guises, recommend the deliberate repudiation of the pledged faith of the nation, and each one of these successive declarations of national infidelity was greeted in the convention with thunders of applause. Then comes a demand for the immediate and unconditional restoration of the Rebel States, and a fierce denunciation of Congress for undertaking to re-organize them in the interest of loyalty and freedom. Having thus surrendered everything that the nation won by the war, and pronounced in favor of handing over the Government to red-handed Rebels, it is not strange that the Convention carefully avoided the least allusion to the Rebellion or to the gallant heroes who fought to suppress it. There is not in the platform, from beginning to end, the least syllable of condemnation of Treason or Rebellion—not a word of sympathy or cheer for the soldiers of the Union—but all through bitter and malignant arraignments of the Government and loyal men who saved the nation. Not even a word of recognition of the bogus "Soldier's Convention," which so cravenly begged for notice. The truth is that the Rebel element ruled the Convention, and that boldly and defiantly.

The platform disposed of, the Convention set to work to get a Presidential candidate, first adopting the two-thirds rule which has been so fatal in Democratic Conventions to men of mark. The ballotting went on drearily throughout Tuesday and Wednesday, without effecting a nomination, and the Convention adjourned to Thursday morning. We annex the ballotings of Tuesday and Wednesday. It will be seen that President JOHNSON received the compliment of 65 votes on first ballot in recognition of his betrayal of the Republican party, but immediately fell off. PENDLETON started strongly, reaching 156½ on the 8th ballot, a clear majority of the Convention; but the inexorable two-thirds rule proved fatal to him. HANCOCK, who has ingratiated himself with the Rebels by his shameful lowering of the flag for which he so bravely fought, then loomed up, reaching 144½ on 18th ballot. The session was an exceedingly stormy one, motions following motions, with mingled hisses and applause, taxing the capacity of the presiding officer (Gov. SEYMOUR) to preserve a show of order. After the 18th ballot the Convention adjourned.

LATER—BY TELEGRAPH.

SEYMOUR AND BLAIR NOMINATED!

The Convention re-assembled yesterday morning, and resumed the balloting amid intense excitement. PENDLETON's case being hopeless, his name was withdrawn. Three more ballots were had, HANCOCK falling off and HENDRICKS going up. The 21st ballot stood Hancock 135½, Hendricks 132, [illegible] Doolittle 12, [illegible] Johnson 5, Hoffman 1, [illegible]. It becoming evident that the bitter war between the friends of PENDLETON, HANCOCK, and HENDRICKS would prevent either from getting a two-thirds vote, the Convention in despair abandoned further balloting and nominated Ex-Gov. HORATIO SEYMOUR, of New York, by acclamation—a man of ability, but a bold, dangerous politician of the Copperhead stripe, whom the loyal voters of New York rejected in 1864, and whom the loyal voters of the Republic will slaughter next November. JOHNSON, CHASE and HANCOCK take nothing by their betrayal of the Republican party, although all three begged hard to have their infidelity acknowledged by the Convention. Serves them right!

Gen. FRANCIS P. BLAIR, of Missouri, was nominated for Vice-President—a fit companion for SEYMOUR—hard to say which is the worse man.

A telegram from Washington says that the ticket occasions much disappointment among Democratic Congressmen, and is conceded by all to be very weak.

Hon. CHARLES A. ELRIDGE, Democratic member of Congress from Wisconsin, was killed in the afternoon by the explosion of a cannon in Union Square, New York, in honor of SEYMOUR's nomination.

THE Supreme Court on Thursday last pronounced the Registry law passed by the Legislature last winter unconstitutional—Judges Thompson, Strong and Sharswood concurring, and Judges Read and Agnew dissenting. So much for electing Sharswood to the bench last fall. The Copperheads set up a howl over the passage of the act, and will now be jubilant over this decision, as it will enable them to renew the frauds and ballot-stuffing by which they carried the election last fall. We notice that some of the Republican papers are urging a special session of the Legislature to meet the quibbles of the majority of the Court, and re-enact the law with the omission of the few points objected to. Gov. GEARY, however, is said to be averse to the movement, in consequence of the cost of an extra session.

JOHNSON's proclamation of general Amnesty, issued on the 4th inst., pardons every Rebel except JEFF. DAVIS. BRECKINRIDGE, who has recently returned to Canada, may now be able to participate in the Presidential campaign—of course on the Rebel side.—The Amnesty applies to a long list of general and high officers in the rebel army, officers of the rebel navy, civil officers of the confederate government, active participants in the rebellion of former rank in the army and navy of the United States, members of the United States Congress previous to the war, and indeed all classes excepted in the previous proclamation, as stated above, excepting only those under indictment before the courts.

The Proclamation was issued in the foolish hope that the New York Convention would accept its author as their candidate. "Would some power the giftie gie us to see ourselves as ithers see us."

"LAFAYETTE WASHINGTON," a colored man, lately the slave of Thomas Gibboney of Virginia, is stumping that State against the new Constitution, in in the interest of the Democrats and Conservatives. He is in their pay, goes around with Rebel General Terry, speaks as the General desires, and is quite a pet with Virginia Copperheads. When he's finished there, WALLACE, it is said, proposes to import him to Pennsylvania.

THE Republicans of Somerset county have unanimously nominated for Congress our present able and faithful Representative, Gen. WM. H. KOONTZ.—The Somerset Herald, in noticing the nomination, says—

> The unsolicited re-nomination of General KOONTZ for a third term, by the Republicans of this county, is a compliment as flattering as it is deserved. At the suggestion of a few of his personal friends and without his personal knowledge, his name was submitted to the voters at the primary election, and the result is, a full unanimous vote in favor of his re-nomination. So marked an expression of the sentiment of the party in this county, should, and we hope will have its due weight and influence in the Congressional conference. This district is a very close one, and the adversary will make a determined and desperate effort to carry it. We submit therefore to our friends in the other counties, that although the names of several worthy gentlemen are mentioned in connection with the nomination, that the great popularity of Gen. KOONTZ in this county—the only one in the district polling a reliable, and decisive Republican majority—and the very acceptable manner (to all the district) in which he has discharged his official duties, should have very great weight, when the choice of a candidate is to be determined. The ability and firm adherence to principle of our candidate have been tested, and approved; add to this great availability, and all the elements to insure success will be found centered in him.

THE New York "Conservative Soldiers' Convention," which met as a "tender" to the Copperhead National Convention, was an eminently "conservative" body, as shown by the antecedents of some of the "soldiers" who figured in it. Take the following for example:

N. B. Forrest, General in the Rebel Army and the butcher of Fort Pillow.
B. H. Hill, General in the Rebel Army.
John B. Gorden, General in the Rebel Army.
Thomas L. Price, General in the Rebel Army.
Z. B. Vance, non-fighting General in the Rebel service.
Wade Hampton, General in Rebel Army.
J. G. Barrett, Rebel Spy during the War.
Robert Ould, Rebel Agent for the exchange of prisoners.
M. W. Gary, General in the Rebel Army.
M. L. Bonhom, General in the Rebel Army.

These are only a few of the most prominent. Of Rebel Colonels, Majors, Captains, and Lieutenants, there are a host. The State of South Carolina alone sends the following distinguished civilians to the National Convention:

Hon. James Chesnut, a seceding U. S. Senator and member of the Rebel Congress.
Judge A. P. Aldrich, removed last year by Gen. Canby for open hostility to the Government.
Hon. John L. Manning, Ex-Governor, and member of the State Committee that declared South Carolina out of the Union.
Hon. M. L. Bonham, one of the seceding members of the 35th Congress, rebel Governor of South Carolina, and one of the Rebel Commissioners to Buchanan in 1861, who demanded that the General Government should not attempt to hold Fort Sumpter.
Hon. Robert Barnwell Rhett, the Calhoun of the Rebellion, and the first man who in the U. S. Congress, of which he was both a Representative and a Senator, openly advocated a dissolution of the Union.

WE give to-day two capital portraits of our Standard-bearers, GRANT and COLFAX. They are the most life-like cuts we have yet seen. No Republican can fail to be pleased with their possession.

A REIGN OF TERROR IN KENTUCKY.

Major Lawrence, U. S. Marshal, was recently assassinated at Russellville, Ky., by a man named McCarty, who was employed by the Rebel citizens to get Lawrence out of the way. He is the fifth Union man who has been shot in Russellville, within the last few months; and the Court there, which is presided over by a man who left Kentucky and joined the Rebel army, has not punished a single one of the murderers. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, giving an account of these outrages, closes his letter with this feeling paragraph:

> The Unionists of Russellville are doomed men. Their murder or expulsion is resolved upon. It is only a question of time. Many of them are men of property. Dr. Blakey is one of the wealthiest men in the county. I state it mildly when I say that a perfect reign of terror exists in this part of the State. These is no possible safety or protection of life or property whatever, for a Union men here. The civil courts, county officers, judges, sheriffs, local magistrates, are all in the hands of rebels, and woe to the unfortunate Unionist that falls into their clutches. Were I living here, and a man owed me a hundred dollars and refused to pay, I would give him the debt; if I owed him a hundred dollars, and he claimed double the amount, I would pay it at once. No man who has ever favored the Federal Government is safe. The negroes that were in its service have been butchered by scores. It is so common to shoot them that it excites no remark whatever. Public sentiment approves it.—The people of the North will never know what the loyal men of the South are called on to endure, and it is sad to reflect that these men, who were the only friends of the Government at the South during the war, are now turned over to the mercy of its enemies.

This is the "peace" the Rebel Democracy have given Kentucky.

EXPENSES OF GOVERNMENT.

Part of the Copperhead programme is to carry the campaign by square lying, and a favorite topic is the expenses of the Government. They tell the most frightful tales, and absolutely set no bounds to their falsification. That our readers may be prepared to refute these charges, we subjoin an extract from a speech made last week in Congress, on the subject, by Hon. James G. Blaine, a prominent member of the Committee on appropriations whose business it is to scan the expenses and who knows that of which he speaks. He said:

> The ordinary expenditures of this fiscal year would be as follows: Executive, legislative and judicial, embracing all salaries and expenses, $17,480,000; for the army, $33,081,013; for the navy, $17,500,000; West Point Military Academy, $320,000; for Post Office Department $2,500,000; consular and diplomatic service, $1,206,434; for Indian Bureau, Treaties, etc., $2,500,000; for rivers and harbors, $4,700,000; for collecting the revenue, $9,969,000; for civil expenses of the various departments, $6,020,000; miscellaneous expenses of all kinds including the cost of certain public buildings, expenses of reconstruction and of closing up the Freedman's Bureau, $9,000,000; deficiencies in appropriations, $2,560,000. Total, 108,818,447. The same class of expenses in Buchanan's time amounted to over $70,000,000 per annum in gold coin. At that time the entire population of the country was less than 30,000,000, while to-day it is well nigh 40,000,000. Adding 40 cent. premium on gold to bring the expenditures of the two eras to the same standard and it will be found that one year of Buchanan's expenditure would amount to $98,000,000 in the currency of to-day, and if we add one third for the increase of population and consequent legitimate increase of expenditure, we find the sum total of one year of Buchanan's expenditure would be $130,000,000, while we spend less than $109,000,000.

Mr. Blaine strongly supported this view of the greater economy of our government in recent years by a comparison of the army expenses under Floyd with those under Grant; showing that each regiment of the army has cost but half what it did in 1860.

THE MURDER OF HON. GEORGE W. ASHBURN OF GEORGIA.

OUR readers will remember the murder of this leading Republican of Georgia, a few months ago in Atlanta. Gen. MEADE organized Military Commissioners to try the men who are charged with the crime; and they were defended by A. H. STEPHENS and other prominent lawyers. The testimony for the prosecution has closed, and the verdict may be expected in a few days. The case is made out clearly against some of the prisoners. We append extracts from the testimony, to show how deliberately the murder was planned:

> "On Tuesday Sergeant Charles Marshall, of the U. S. A., Company G, Sixteenth Infantry, was called. He was one of the persons arrested for the murder, and has since made a full confession. He had not answered a dozen questions when a visible sensation overspread the Court, counsel and spectators.
> In the clearest and most direct manner he went on to tell how he was first approached upon the subject of killing Ashburn by Dr. Kirkocey, about three weeks before the murder; how he had been associating with the Democrats about Columbus, and made to believe that the death of Ashburn was necessary; how Kirkocey a few days before the affair informed him that a party was made up to do the killing, and told him to be ready; how a mask was sent him the night of the murder, with a note telling him to meet the rest at midnight; how he went to a vacant lot near Ashburn's house, meeting Kirkocey, Henness, Hudson, Dake, Barber, Bedell, Malone and others; how they then proceeded to the house, broke in the doors, and massacred poor Ashburn, as is already so well known.
> The witness stated distinctly that, although he had mingled intimately with the citizens of Columbus for a year, and especially the Democrats, he knew no cause for their animosity against Ashburn, except his offensive politics.
> A. H. Stephens cross-examined the witness, but failed to shake his testimony in a single particular.
> The next witness examined was George F. Betts. He was a citizen of Columbus and raised there. He also was one of the party that killed Ashburn and has also made a full confession. As he went on to confirm, in almost every particular, the statements of the first witness, the astonishment in Court was even greater than before. He gave as his reason for assisting to kill Ashburn, that he thought he was a tyrant, and ought to be put out of the way, but the immediate inducement was fifty or a hundred dollars offered him by Kirkocey.
> In Bett's case as in Marshall's, the cross-examination failed to shake the testimony.
> Alex. Gordon Bennett was next called to the stand. This is the man who stood behind the door of the room in which Ashburn was killed, and saw the whole transaction. He related all the circumstances of the murder with much minuteness, and identified Duke and Barber certainly, and Hudson less certainly. He said he gave different testimony at the coroner's inquest, because he knew the Ku-Klux would surely kill him if he told the truth. Bennett's testimony was very interesting, and occupied the entire day.

"MILITARY GOVERNMENTS" are bad say the Copperheads. Yet every Copperhead Congressman votes to keep the Southern States from representation in Congress, and to continue them under Military rule!

So, the Copperhead theory is that the right of representation in Congress ought to be accorded to the Southern States, only when they agree to send anti-Republican Congressmen! This is a simple doctrine at least, if not honest and patriotic.

THE Reconstruction Convention of Texas, now in session, is said to be the ablest body of men who ever assembled in that State. Its President, Gen. E. J. DAVIS, was an eminent lawyer when the Rebellion broke out, and had to leave the State to escape a Confederate halter. He served in the Union army, was promoted for good conduct, and is now one of the leading spirits in fastening Texas to her old moorings.

[illegible]

WM. P. Kellogg and John S. Harris have been elected United States Senators from Louisiana.

GENERAL Chamberlin has been nominated by the Republicans for re-election as Governor of Maine.

HON. John A. Griswold has been nominated by the Republicans of New York for Governor of the State.

GENERAL Grant and family arrived at St. Louis on Wednesday. He declines all public demonstrations.

THE New York Union soldiers will hold a Grant and Colfax encampment in a few weeks, in which thirty thousand Boys in Blue are expected to take part.

THE North Carolina Legislature has fully organized, and both Houses have adopted resolutions ratifying the Fourteenth Constitutional Amendment.

THE notorious Toombs, of Georgia, is organizing the Democratic party of that State, composed principally of the men he recently commanded in the armies of the rebellion.

THE Republicans of Michigan have nominated the Hon. H. P. Baldwin, of Detroit, for Governor, Morgan Bates for Lieutenant-Governor, and Dwight May for Attorney General.

Gov. Andrew, three days before his death, said: "The tendency of the hour is toward Grant; and that is best. Grant is so square and honest a man that I believe he is bound to be right, anywhere."

THE consistent Democracy, so sensitive lest the property of armed traitors should be touched, are now loudly clamoring for the confiscation of one-tenth of the money loaned by loyal men to the Government to carry on the war. This thoroughly disloyal party objects only to the confiscation of rebel property.

A LETTER to the Congressional Executive Committee from the Chairman of the Republican Committee in Mississippi, dated Vicksburg, July 3d, says the indications are that the Democratic party has carried the State.

Frauds are said to have been perpetrated, and many loyal men and negroes kept from the polls by violence.

The river counties, where the voters were protected by the military, gave fifteen thousand majority for the Constitution.

POLITICAL INCONSISTENCY.—A Wisconsin Democratic paper upbraided Congress for "filching the people's money to pay pampered clerks," when the House passed the twenty per cent. addition bill, and then condemned its action reversing the vote, as denying to poor, half-starved clerks, "the petty twenty per cent. they ask for bread." This is on a par with the action of the Democrats in Congress. They are forever charging the Republicans with extravagance, but always give their vote for every scheme of plunder and corruption that is brought up.

HOW THE SOLDIERS VOTED.—The following table of the soldiers' vote in 1864 may give some idea of how the same soldiers will be likely to vote now:

States.	Lincoln.	McClellan.
Maine	2,692	473
Rhode Island	657	248
New Hampshire	2,018	671
Pennsylvania	26,712	12,349
Ohio	41,146	9,757
Maryland	2,800	1,321
Kentucky	1,194	2,823
Iowa	17,310	1,921
Michigan	9,402	2,959
California	2,600	237
Wisconsin	14,550	2,591
Total	121,041	35,050

It is also worthy of note that New Jersey, Indiana and Illinois chose Democratic Legislatures in 1862, so their soldiers were not allowed to vote for President in 1864. Nearly every Republican State, with Kentucky and Maryland, then ruled by earnest Unionists, enabled their soldiers to vote in the field.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Senate is making rapid work on the Tax bill, and it is now thought that Congress will be able to adjourn about the 20th inst.

On Tuesday, Mr. STEVENS presented to the House five additional articles of impeachment, arraigning President Johnson for overt illegal acts committed during his administration. A committee was asked for to examine and report the same to the House. The articles present a compend of the numerous and flagrant acts of the Executive in violation of his powers and duties, and in contravention of the functions with which the Constitution has clothed him.—Mr. Stevens supported the articles in an able speech, and then moved postponement. It is understood that Mr. S. does not intend to press the articles to a vote, but submits them as his individual views.

General McDowell has come under the ban of Andrew Johnson, and so has been relieved of the command of the Fourth Military District, General Gillem being appointed his successor. A. J. has great trouble to find a soldier who will suit his purpose.

It is understood that the Senate will veto the nomination of Perry Fuller for Revenue Commissioner, and Collector Smythe as Minister to Austria. Both were deeply mixed up with the Impeachment question, and both suspected of connection with the Whisky ring. The confirmation of Evarts, as Attorney General, is in doubt. He was the leading counsel in defence of the President.

Secretary Seward expresses himself as assured that the House of Representatives will appropriate the Alaska purchase money.

Gen. Grant, before starting on his Western tour, issued orders to the Military Commanders in North and South Carolina, Louisiana, Florida and Alabama, to enforce the provisions of the last Reconstruction bill, and withdraw the Military as soon as the new State Governments are organized.

AN immense meeting of the friends of GRANT and COLFAX was held at the Cooper Institute, New York, on the 1st inst. Senator WILSON was among the Speakers, and the following letter from Mr. STEVENS was read:

> WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27, 1868.
> Dear Sir—I have received your invitation, and very much regret that the state of my health and urgent engagements prevent my attendance. You ask my opinion of the doings of the Chicago Republican Convention. No Republican can hesitate to approve of the nominations. I do not think that a braver or more patriotic citizen can be found than Gen. GRANT. His wisdom in council, his moral courage, and his exclusive attention to what pertains to his duties, render him eminently fit to be Chief Magistrate of the nation. I cannot doubt that a very large majority of his fellow-citizens are of the same opinion. I may say the same, with equal propriety, of the Hon. SCHUYLER COLFAX. I am very truly yours,
> THADDEUS STEVENS.

AMONG the Delegates to the New York Convention was Gen. FORREST, the Rebel hero of the Fort Pillow massacre. He was in the right place.

Our exchanges from all parts report Sunday as one of the hottest days in the records of heat of each of locality.

THE Siamese twins are about to undergo a surgical operation to be separated. The operation is to be undergone in Paris.

A CHILD of eleven years of age poisoned her mother, in Nashville, the other day, for refusing to give her dessert after dinner.

FROM present appearances there will not be more than one fourth of a crop of peaches in Delaware this season.

A DRAWBRIDGE gave way in San Francisco on the 4th, precipitating sixty persons into deep water, and drowning quite a number.

L. C. BAKER, who acquired considerable notoriety during and since the war as a Government detective, died at Philadelphia on Friday.

BY the explosion of a rocket, Saturday evening, in the spire of St. John's Church, Buffalo, the structure took fire and was totally destroyed. Loss, $50,000.

THE Directors of the Poor of Schuylkill county employ a corps of doctors to visit sick families in indigent circumstances, free of charge.

PETER CAGGER, a prominent Democratic politician of Albany, N. Y., was killed on Monday night in New York city by being thrown from a carriage.

FLAKE's Galveston Bulletin published on the 24th of June "an imperfect return from about seventy counties in Texas of the murders and assaults with attempt to kill in Texas during 1867." The list numbers 411 cases, and was prepared by the Secretary of State.

SINGULAR DISEASES AMONG HORSES.—During the past few weeks a singular disease, which baffles the skill of the best veterinary surgeons, has been raging among the horses in the town of Rye, in Westchester county, N. Y. The disease attacks the horses in the throat, and is accompanied by the symptoms similar to those of diptheria in the human family. Mr. James Morrison, of Rye, has lost five horses, each valued at $500, and others persons have suffered from the same cause. A consultation has been held by several eminent veterinary surgeons, but none of them have been able to explain the cause of the disease.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.—The financial statement of receipts of revenue for the year ending Jund 30, 1868, will be completed in a few days and will show the actual receipts to be somewhat in excess of the estimates of Commissioner Wells, furnished to the Committee of Ways and Means at the beginning of the session. The estimated receipts on customs were $163,000,000, and they will reach $165,000,000. On internal revenue, the estimates were $190,000,000, while the receipts will reach $193,000,000. The estimate of receipts from miscellaneous sources were $40,000,0000, and the actual receipts will exceed that sum.

ON the 1st inst., a number of raftsmen stopped at Alma, Iowa, a small town on the Mississippi river, and having drunk much whiskey demanded more. Fearing the consequences the saloon keeper refused to give them any, and in their rage the raftsmen proceeded to the task of demolishing every drinking establishment in the place. This was soon accomplished, when they attacked the stores and private residences, and robbed, beat and maltreated the inmates. The County Sheriff and his Deputy attempted to restore order, but some of the raftsmen drew their revolvers and shot him and his companion dead, and then fired promiscuously into the crowd, dangerously wounding a number of others. The German citizens at last constituted themselves into a vigilance committee, and proceeded to clean out the invaders.

THE DIVISION OF TEXAS.—Congress has the power to divide Texas into five States, but only with the consent of their people; and they are not likely soon to give their consent. The petition of the Texas Convention asks that three States and one Territory be formed. Texas would according to the boundaries assigned, have thirty-seven thousand four hundred square miles and four hundred thousand people; Navarro, sixty thousand square miles and four hundred thousand people; Alamo, fifty-seven thousand square miles and two hundred thousand people. The proposed Territory would have but six thousand people. Few people know what an empire Texas is. It would make twenty-five New Hampshires, or more than five New Yorks, or nearly six Pennsylvanias. It is nearly three times as large as the Island of Great Britain, and and nearly half as large again as France.

CONDITION OF THE CROPS.—WASHINGTON, July 2.—In relation to the condition of the crops the Agricultural Department reports an increased acreage in nearly every State. There is no increase in the fall acreage of New England except 4 per cent. in Vermont.

In Pennsylvania the acreage is very slightly enlarged, about 3 per cent. for winter wheat. In Delaware a reduction of 7 per cent. appears; while an increase of 9 per cent. is shown in Maryland, 11 in Virginia, 17 in North Carolina, 21 in South Carolina, 11 in Georgia, 10 in Alabama, 53 in Mississippi, 31 in Arkansas, 40 in Tennessee and 30 in West Virginia. In Texas a decrease is shown of 6 per cent., and in Kentucky of 1 per cent. Spring wheat is not grown in the South. The increased average in the West, where the great bulk of the wheat crop of the country is grown, is of peculiar significance. Of the States in which winter wheat is most largely cultivated, Ohio presents an increase of 5 per cent. of that variety, Indiana 10 per cent. and Michigan 17 per cent. In other portions of these States an unusual effort has been made to enlarge the area by spring sowing, showing respectively, 11, 14 and 6 per cent. increase.

In Kansas the increase in winter sown wheat is 25 per cent. An analysis of the western averages will show a general average of about 11 per cent. increase in the fall sowing and 28 per cent. in the breadth of spring wheat, altogether an increase of 18 to 20 per cent. A promise of the best crop ever sown is held out.

One Kentucky correspondent says: "I am compelled now to say that I never in all my life saw a greater outcome in wheat, and this remark is applied to all the counties west of the Tennessee river." More or less complaint is made throughout Virginia and Maryland of the appearance of rust upon the blades, which has affected the stalk but slightly in most cases, and done little damage to the crop. Similar reports have come from parts of Ohio and Kentucky. The weather, which has been so wet during the period of growth, has generally been quite propitious as the period for ripening approached.

About the usual average of rye is reported. Kentucky, Missouri and Minnesota have given incrased attention to barley, but most of the other States are either slightly below the average or barely up to it. An increased area in oats, averaging 7 per cent. for the entire country, is reported.

Delaware and Wisconsin are the only States failing to give increased acreage in pasturage.

The appearance of apple blossoms was unusually late on the Atlantic coast.

In the central part of the West the bloom of orchards was not generally abundant.—It was small on the Atlantic coast between New York and Georgia, with the single exception of apples. West of the Mississippi it was large, and in some localities excessive.

A FRIGHTFUL SCENE.—A letter to the New York Herald, from Salisbury, N. C., June 26, says:

A most exciting spectacle has been witnessed here to-day in the public execution of Rufus Ludwig for killing his wife, to whom he had been married only eleven days. The instant he touched the platform a most extraordinary and exciting scene ensued. He at once made a wild plunge forward with the intention of leaping off the platform on the farther side, and with the evident purpose of making a break and a desperate endeavor to push his way through the crowd and escape his impending doom.

He succeeded in throwing his feet and legs off the platform, but the two officers having hold of his arms and shoulders held fast, and pulling him back he fell with the upper part of his back still on the platform, his legs and part of his body still projecting over the edge. Several of the nearest officers of the guard at once rushed to the assistance of the Sheriff, and laid hold of Ludwig's legs, endeavoring to shove him backward on the platform. But the prisoner struggled with almost superhuman strength. With all the vigor of his powerful and muscular frame, nerved by despair, he wrestled with fate. For a long time he uttered no word, but with convulsive and rapid movements of arms and legs strove to wrench himself from the grasp of the eight or ten men who now had hold of him.

A thrill of awe and horror ran through the immense assemblage, and it swayed to and fro like a forest shaken by a mighty wind. Some turned and fled from the awful spectacle; exclamations of excitement and terror broke forth from others; women and negroes shrieked. Such a scene is not often witnessed in this world. But those whose duty it was to act remained calm and cool.

The guard brought their muskets to a "ready." The noose was two feet above his head as he lay, and powerful efforts were used to push him up to it. Meanwhile the platform grew rickety, and several were employed in steadying it.

The noose was at last put on and drawn tight around his neck. He clutched it convulsively, and still used his feet to the utmost in kicking off those who had hold of him. It took several minutes to pinion his hands and feet—he meanwhile lying on his side and choking to death as fast as possible, for the rope was stretched by his weight. His face was perfectly livid and his eyes starting from their sockets, presenting a spectacle not easily forgotten, the Sheriff being too busy subduing and pinioning him to take time to put on the white cap. The frightful scene was then terminated.

OUR exchanges notice a number of deaths from sun stroke, especially in the cities during the last week.

GEISER'S PATENT SELF-REGULATING

GRAIN SEPARATOR, CLEANER AND BAGGER,

With the latest improved Triple-geared Horse Power, either Gear or Belt.

This machine has successfully competed with all the best of the different patented Grain Separators, and now has the reputation of being the best Separator ever produced; in fact, the only Separator and Cleaner ever before the public to give general satisfaction. The machine is conveniently arranged for hauling and threshing, being permanently fixed on two wheels. One man can easily move or shift it about, so that it is not half the trouble on a barn floor as a common thresher and shaker. It is also easily put in operation. It is simple, easily managed, reliable, durable, compact and cleanly to work by while in operation, not making near the dust as the common machine or other Separators.

Farmers can rest assured that this machine is no humbug, and judging from the high recommendation of farmers that are using them we must come to the conclusion that it is the very machine that farmers want.

The following are a few of the persons who have used this machine, well known, and to whom the public are referred for further information:

Wm J. Peters, Flora Dale, Adams co., Penna.
Wm. Kohler, near New Oxford " "
John D. Pfoutz, " Gettysburg " "
Henry Harbold, York Springs, " "
Daniel Peters, Bendersville, " "

Orders will be received by either of these gentlemen, as also by Rebert and Hoover, East Berlin, Pa.—For further information address

REAPERS AND MOWERS.

DODGES' PATENT OHIO AND BUCKEYE, E. BALL & COMPANY'S WORLD'S REAPER & MOWER.

HAVING had considerable experience in the sale of Reaping and Mowing Machines in the last few years. I have made it a point to offer no machine to the farmer that will not when thoroughly tested give general satisfaction, and hence have declined the agency for all but what I regard the very best in the market. I now offer to the farmer the coming Season, two of what I consider the best machines in use. Last season I sold thirty-five of the OHIO & BUCKEYE Patent which have given entire satisfaction. No machine has been returned, neither has there been any difficulty with any one to whom they were sold—all paying for their machines promptly. Certificates from those who have purchased, could be procured but I deem it unnecessary—but for information would refer those wanting machines to any of the following gentlemen who purchased and have been using these machines:

Jacob Raffensperger,	Edward Wagoner,
Jacob Fidler,	Samuel Wagoner,
William Wert, Jr.,	John Brinkerhoff,
Benjamin Shelly,	William Bigham,
Newton Horner,	Rush Bigham,
Silas Horner,	Dr. Goldsborough,
John Herbst,	Henry Spangler,
Joseph Gelbaugh,	James Marshall,
Joseph Culbertson,	Frederick Peffer,
George Bushey,	Henry Weikert,
Daniel March,	Henry Butt.

This machine has been awarded medals and first Premiums by the Pennsylvania, Iowa and New York State Fairs, and by hundreds of County Fairs in all parts of the country, including the Adams County Fairs, having received the first Premium at Bendersville in the fall of 1866, and at Gettysburg in 1867, as the best on exhibition.

This machine has met with the most complete success. In every section where it has been introduced, it has taken precedence over machines which have heretofore ranked as first class. In compactness, lightness of draft, excellence and elegance of workmanship and finish, combined with great strength and adaptation to all kinds of work, it will surpass any machine heretofore offered to the farmer. The Self-Rake on this machine has been considerably improved in the last Season, and is warranted to give general satisfaction or no sale.

THE WORLD'S MOWER AND REAPER.

This is an entire new machine, but judging from its construction and the testimonials it has received, it will be the leading machine. The gearing is cut out of solid Iron, making every wheel and cog exact, fitting up close, and running as true as a clock, which makes the machine much lighter of draft, and no cutting of cogs or wear. The gearing is all closed in a tight case the same as a watch, entirely excluding water, dirt, or grass, and indeed preventing everything that is calculated to prove injurious to the machinery. To oil, you simply open the lid when all the oiling places are exposed and conveniently oiled.—The burs are all encased the same as the gearing and cut in the same way, and when once tightened down there is no danger of working loose, as is the case with other machines. The Company do not hesitate in saying that this machine, with proper care, will last a man a life time, which is a matter every farmer should take into consideration, before buying at the present high prices of machines.

TESTIMONY OF REV. JACOB B. TROSTLE.

LINGANORE, FRED'K., co., MD., April 22, 1868.

MR. WM. WIBLE:—Last year I purchased one of E. Ball's WORLD'S REAPERS, and used it last harvest in in cutting my own Grain and Grass and some of my neighbors, and have no hesitation in saying that it gave me more satisfaction as a combined machine than any I have ever used, although I have tried some seven or eight other machines. I regard it the BEST machine in market, and do not hesitate to recommend it as such to any person wanting a first-class machine.

Yours, &c., J. D. TROSTLE.

I can also furnish BALL'S OHIO to those wishing that machine.

I can furnish these machines to suit farmers, and will sell as single Mowers or Combined Machines as Mowers—Self-Rake—Hand-Rake—Dropper—or Dropper and Hand Rake combined. I am also agent for BOPE'S DROPPER, which can be attached to any make of machine. Those having old machines on hand, and wishing a Dropper can be accommodated by sending in their orders early and naming the kind of machine to which they wish them to be attached. Price $30.

Sample machines can be seen at the residence of the subscriber, two miles from Gettysburg, on Harrisburg road, or at the Warehouse of COBEAN & BIGHAM, Gettysburg, Pa.

I also keep on hand

WIRE-TOOTH HAY RAKES, STEEL PLOUGHS, FEED CUTTERS AND FARMING IMPLEMENTS GENERALLY.

Farmers would do well to examine my machinery before buying elsewhere as I keep nothing but the best.

Extras constantly on hand, and I have made arrangements to have repairing done in the best possible manner at short notice and moderate charges.
April 22.—3m WM. WIBLE.

J. H. SHIREMAN'S, REAPERS & MOWERS.

HAVING been agent for this machine last season, I also offer it to the farmer this season. It is well known, having taken the premium at the Bendersville Fair, also at the Gettysburg Mowing Match over seven others, which were considered splendid machines, and likewise at the Dillsburg Mowing Match. Having concluded not to offer any machine that will not give entire satisfaction, I have refused agencies of several other machines, and now offer this one as,

THE GREAT MACHINE OF THE SEASON.

Having tried one myself, I know exactly what it will do. I could refer you to scores of farmers who have purchased machines of me, who are highly pleased and say this is the only machine they would use.

Extras always on hand, and repairing done here at my place. This is a great consideration—the machine can be repaired at home immediately, and with much less cost.

Another great saving is the BINDER which is attached to this celebrated Reaper and Mower. It has been thoroughly tried, and given entire satisfaction—requiring no harvest hand except a driver. This Binder can also be attached to the Reapers which have been sold; but cannot be attached to any other machine except Shireman's.

I will here refer you to a few farmers, in different localities, who have bought and used these machines:

Michael Plank,	Stephen Gettier,
Moses Hartman,	Mr. Sterner,
Joseph Wierman,	Mr. Lian,
Ulrich Jacobs,	J. R. Hershey
Jacob Hartman,	B. B. Woodburn,
Jacob Laman,

with others, too numerous to mention.

This machine has a self-rake, side delivery, and is warranted to do its work as above recommended.

Also on hand, SHIREMAN'S SELF-DISCHARGING HORSE RAKE, a first-rate article, which we will sell at the lowest possible price. Warranted to give satisfaction. Also the COLUMBIA RAKE always on hand.

Machines can be seen at my house, three miles south of Gettysburg, or at Mr. Conrad Snyder's Battlefield Hotel. LEWIS A. BUSHMAN,
June 3.—tf Agent.

NEW MACHINE SHOP AT NEW OXFORD.

THE undersigned calls attention to his new Machine Shop, at New Oxford, Adams county, which he has put up, at large expense, with the determination to do good and satisfactory work. He will manufacture various kinds of such as THRESHING MACHINES, SPRING-TOOTH RAKES, &c.; and will keep the BUCKEYE REAPER & MOWER on hand for sale.

All descriptions of REPAIRING done promptly and as cheaply as possible.

He has in connection with his Machine Shop a STEAM SAW MILL, upon which he will do all kinds of work in that line.

He asks the public to call and give him a trial, and he guarantees full satisfaction.

are the best and CHEAPEST LOW PRICED Hoop Skirts in the market. Trail Skirts, 25 springs, $1.00; 30 springs, $1.20; and 40 springs, $1.45. Plain Skirts, 6 tapes, 20 springs, 80 Cents; 25 springs, 95 Cents; 30 springs, $1.15; and 35 springs, $1.25. Warranted in every respect.

"OUR OWN MAKE" of "UNION SKIRTS," Eleven Tape Trails, from 20 to 50 springs, $1.20 to $2.50.—Plain, Six Tapes, 20 to 50 springs, from 95 Cents to $2.00. These Skirts are better than those sold by other establishments as first class goods, and at much lower prices.

"OUR OWN MAKE" of "CHAMPION SKIRTS" are in every way superior to all other Hoop Skirts before the public, and only have to be examined or worn to convince every one of the fact. Manufactured of the best linen-finished English Steel Springs, very superior tapes, and the style of the metallic fastenings and manner of securing them surpass for durability and excellence any other Skirt in this country, and are lighter, more elastic, will wear longer, give more satisfaction, and are really cheaper than all others. Every lady should try them. They are being sold extensively by Merchants throughout this and the adjoining states at very moderate prices. If you want the best, ask for "Hopkin's Champion Skirt." If you do not find them, get the merchant with whom you deal to order them for you, or come or send direct to us. Merchants will find our different grades of Skirts exactly what they need, and we especially invite them to call and examine our extensive assortment, or send for Wholesale Price List.

To be had at Retail at Manufactory, and of the Retail Trade generally, and at Wholesale of the Manufacturer only, to whom all orders should be addressed.

GEISER'S PATENT SELF-REGULATING

RAIN SEPARATOR,

CLEANER AND BAGGER,

ith the latest improved Triple-gear-ed Horse Power, either Gear or Belt.

This machine has successfully competed with all the est of the different patented Grain Separators, and w has the reputation of being the best Separator er produced; in fact, the only Separator and Clean- ever before the public to give general satisfaction. The machine is conveniently arranged for hauling d threshing, being permanently fixed on two wheels. e man can easily move or shift it about, so that it not half the trouble on a barn floor as a common resher and shaker. It is also easily put in opera- n. It is simple, easily managed, reliable, durable, mpact and cleanly to work by while in operation, t making near the dust as the common machine or her Separators.

Farmers can rest assured that this machine is no mbug, and judging from the high recommendation farm ers that are using them we must come to the nclusion that it is the very machine that farmers nt.

EAPERS AND MOWERS.

ODGES' PATENT

OHIO AND BUCKEYE,

. BALL & COMPANY'S

ORLD'S REAPER & MOWER.

HAVING had considerable expe- rience in the sale of Reaping and Mowing Ma- nes in the last few years. I have made it a point offer no machine to the farmer that will not when roughly tested give general satisfaction, and hence e declined the agency for all but what I regard very best in the market. I now offer to the mer the coming Season, two of what I consider best machines in use. Last season I sold thirty- of the OHIO & BUCKEYE Patent which have en entire satisfaction. No machine has been re- ned, neither has there been any difficulty with any to whom they were sold—all paying for their chines promptly. Certificates from those who e purchased, could be procured but I deem it un- essary—but for information would refer those ting machines to any of the following gentlemen purchased and have been using these machines:

his machine has been awarded medals and first miums by the Pennsylvania, Iowa and New York e Fairs, and by hundreds of County Fairs in all s of the country, including the Adams County rs, having received the first Premium at Benders- e in the fall of 1866, and at Gettysburg in 1867, as best on exhibition.

his machine has met with the most complete suc- . In every section where it has been introduced, as taken precedence over machines which have etofore ranked as first class. In compactness, light- of draft, excellence and elegance of workmanship finish, combined with great strength and adapta- to all kinds of work, it will surpass any machine etofore offered to the farmer. The Self-Rake on machine has been considerably improved in the Season, and is warranted to give general satis- ion or no sale.

THE WORLD'S MOWER AND REAPER.

his is an entire new machine, but judging from construction and the testimonials it has received, ill be the leading machine. The gearing is cut out olid Iron, making every wheel and cog exact, fit- up close, and running as true as a clock, which es the machine much lighter of draft, and no dan- of cogs or wear. The gearing is all closed in a t case the same as a watch, entirely excluding er, dirt, or grass, and indeed preventing every- g that is calculated to prove injurious to the ma- nery. To oil, you simply open the lid when all the g places are exposed and conveniently oiled.— burs are all encased the same as the gearing and in the same way, and when once tightened down e is no danger of working loose, as is the case other machines. The Company do not hesitate ying that this machine, with proper care, will a man a life time, which is a matter every ner should take into consideration, before buying he present high prices of machines.

AIN AND FANCY

JOB PRINTING,

DONE PROMPTLY AT

STAR AND SENTINEL OFFICE.

The Star and Sentinel.

Gettysburg, Friday, July 10, 1868.

LOST.—On Friday last, a gold Sleeve Button, with the letter L in black ground. The finder will please return to this office.

TALL RYE.—Capt. JOHN HORNER, of Mountjoy township, sends us several stocks of Rye measuring seven feet, cut above the ground.

NEW JOB PRESS.—We have received our new Gordon Card Press, and are now prepared to turn out Cards and Circulars of all kinds, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Checks, Tickets, &c., in PLAIN and FANCY colors, in the best style, at low rates, and on short notice. Give us a call.

HARVEST.—Our Farmers are now in the midst of the Grain harvest. The grass crop has been unusually heavy. The Wheat and Rye, as a general thing, gives promise of a good crop, although in some sections they have been affected somewhat by weavil and rust, especially the later grain.

LIFE INSURANCE.—The matter of Life Insurance is attracting more than usual attention. In to-day's paper will be found the Card of the "New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Massachusetts," which is represented to be one of the best in the country. WM. KING, Esq., of New Oxford, is the Agent for this county.

☞Mr F. C. GARDNER'S child, whose death from burns we noticed last week, was but 2 years 9 months old, instead of 6 years. The mother had gone for some water, leaving the little girl in the kitchen, whose clothes took fire while putting a chip in the fire. She immediately ran out in search of her mother, and was found so badly burnt that she died next day, as stated last week.

CARDS.—With our new Gordon Jobber, and full assortment of Fancy Job Type, we are prepared to furnish, at an hour's notice, all kinds of Visiting or Business Cards, Wedding Cards, Ball, Concerts and Lecture Tickets, in PLAIN OR FANCY colors, equal to the best City work. Our new Gorden works beautifully, and can be seen in operation any day.

PAID PROMPTLY.—Some nine or ten months before his death, Rev. Dr. BAUGHER took out a Policy for $5,000 in the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia. The Company promptly paid the $5,000, on being apprised of Dr. B's death, together with $126 Premium, which had already accrued on the Policy. The Card of this Company will be found in our advertising columns—HENRY J. FAHNESTOCK, of this place, being agent for Adams county.

COMMITTED.—On Tuesday last a drunken Irishmen, hailing from Baltimore, made his appearance on our streets, inspired by bad whisky and bad politics, mingling cheers for "Jeff. Davis," "Bob Lee," and the "Copperhead Ticket," with reckless blasphemy. Officer WEIKERT took him before Burgess MYERS, who committed him to Jail for 24 hours, to give him time to sober down. The poor fellow doubtless thought himself in New York city, forgetting that the Rebel-Copperhead Convention was not in session in Gettysburg.

DEATH OF AN OLD PRINTER.—The Cincinnati papers notice the death of JOHN M. MCCREARY, one of the oldest practical printers of that city. He was a native of Gettysburg—his father (JAMES A. MCCREARY) having kept a hotel some 50 years ago on Baltimore street, opposite the "Star and Sentinel" office. The deceased worked in the "Sentinel" office, during his minority, under the senior editor of this paper. He subsequently went West, and for awhile published a paper in Wheeling, Va., removing thence in 1858 to Cincinnati, where he was largely identified with the Trade Leagues and similar organizations.

DEATHS.—JACOB ZIEGLER, one of the oldest citizens of Harrisburg, aged 97 years, died on the 30th ult. He was a brother of EMANUEL ZIEGLER, sen., deceased, formerly of this place.

Hon. W. H. KURTZ, formerly member of Congress from York and Adams, died at York, of paralysis, on the 24th ult., in his 65th year.

HENRY DELLONE, of Franklin Grove, Illinois, formerly of East Berlin, Adams county, died very suddenly at his residence, at the former place, on the 21st ult. His remains were brought to East Berlin, and interred at Paradise Church, near Abbottstown.

HOT WEATHER.—July opened fircely in the way of hot weather. All last week the heat was excessive. On the 1st, 2d and 3d, the thermometer registered 96° in the shade, while on the 4th it went up to 99°, and on Sunday to 103°! Towards evening the intense heat was broken by a heavy storm of wind and rain, which came up from the North and East, the mercury going down rapidly to 75°.

The Storm of Sunday evening in the eastern part of the county did considerable damage to growing crops, throwing down the grain and corn, prostrating trees, &c. The Lutheran Church in New Oxford was struck by lightning, but not seriously damaged. In the neighborhood of Littlestown there was considerable hail.

SCHOLARSHIP ASSIGNED.—Some six or seven years ago, Hon. EDWARD MCPHERSON purchased a Perpetual Scholarship in Pennsylvania College, and gave to the School Board of the Borough the privilege of assigning the first incumbent of it from the most meritorious pupils in the Public Schools—with the condition that in case of equality of grade in scholarship and general good conduct, the pupil having the least means should be prepared. The scholarship was then assigned to Mr. BENIAH SNYDER. Mr. S. having completed his studies, Mr. McPherson a year ago generously renewed the offer to the Board with similar conditions, and the announcement was made to the pupils of school No. 1 at the commencement of last term. At the close of the session, it was found by examination of the School Register that ROMANUS SNYDER had the highest average marks, and the Board accordingly assigned to him the Scholarship.

The Board has also the control of another Scholarship in the College, founded by Mr. THOMPSON, of Lancaster, but with different conditions—the Board being required in all cases to have reference to the means of the pupils in assigning it. This Scholarship is now vacant, we believe, and will probably be given out at the close of the next term.

THE FOURTH.—The Borough authorities having modified the ordinance against the sale and firing of fire-works, &c., so far as concerns the national holidays, "Young America" held high carnival during the night of the 3d and the morning of the 4th. All night long there was an incessant explosion of crackers, guns and pistols, with occasional rockets. At 4 o'clock, A. M., the day was formally ushered in by the ringing of bells and martial music. The Zouaves, Capt. NORRIS, drilled from 4 to 6 o'clock, A. M., firing salutes at regular intervals. The Brass Band was also out, and gave us a number of national airs. The streets were alive at early hour, pic-nic parties arranging to spend the day in the woods. As the day wore on, the sweltering rays of the sun pouring down from a cloudless sky drove each of our citizens as remained in-doors, and the streets presented the quiet of a strictly observed Sabbath until evening, when the pic-nickers returned and "Young America" again took possession of the streets with their fireworks. Taking it all in all it was a pleasant "Fourth," no accident of any kind occurring to mar the festivities of the day. One three year old chap—the Junior's youngest—evidently favorably impressed with the noise, and frolic, and confusion, wants to know when "July" will come again.

ORPHANS' HOMESTEAD.—On Friday evening last the children of the National Orphans' Homestead had a pleasant time in Agricultural Hall, the programme being specially arranged with reference to a commemoration of the Battles of July, 1863. The evening was very warm, preventing, doubtless, many from being present; yet the large Hall was about two thirds full. The Hall had been tastefully draped for the occasion with National flags, the children of the Homestead, with the officers of the Institution, occupying the platform. The word "Gettysburg," in large gilt letters, was arranged in a semicircle over the platform, with "1863" underneath, and a drapery of national flags.

The boys were all uniformed in a grey suit, with officers, miniature guns, &c. and went through the military drill. The girls wore white bodies with blue sashes.

The programme of exercises was as follows:

1—Chant by the Children.
2—Prayer by Prof. FERRIER.
3—Psalm (in concert) by the Children.
4—Prayers. (Choral and recitative.) Maria Lane, Pa., Lillie Shaw, Pa., Lizzie Boortz, Mich., Amelia Long, Pa., Sarah Bennett, Pa., Rosa Self, Ills., Naomi Metz, Pa.
5—Salutation to the Flag.—F. Humiston, N. Y., C. S. Washburn, Conn., L. Brown, N. Y., W. J. Lane, Pa.
[All.] Hail to the Flag so peerless in might,
Hail to the Flag with the red, blue and White.
6—Beautiful Flag.—Annie Robb, Pa., Susie Campbell, Pa., Addie Swope, Pa., Lizzie West, Pa., Eliza Sorber, Pa., Maggie Russell, Pa., F. Robertson, Pa., Emma Sorber, Pa., Sallie Farley, Pa., Bella Hunter, Pa.
7—Poem by Miss LATIMER.
8—"Gone to the war," (Song,) by Lieut. NORTON.
9—Gettysburg Battle Song.—L. Brown, N. Y., Jessie Archer, N. Y., Annie Steck, Pa., Eva Brown, N. Y., Ruth Metz, Pa., Gusta Boortz, Mich., Alice Humiston, N. Y., Ida Metz, Pa., Minnie Glennie, Mich., Mary J. Ballantine, Pa.
10—"I have a home," (Hymn,) by the Children.
11—Five years ago to-day.—W. Swope, Pa., Tynie Wallace, Pa., F. West, Pa., J. W. Wingert, Pa., F. Humiston, N. Y.,
[All.] For our flag, borne firmly through the fray,
Gloriously triumphed, five years this day.
12—The Requiem—Lizzie Boortz. Little Ones. Boys.
[All.] Noble and brave, rest thee, O rest!
In yonder peaceful home, so blest.
13—Remarks by Prof. FERRIER and Dress Parade by the Boys
14—Singing by the Children.
15—Benediction by Rev. Mr. BREIDENBAUGH.

The singing was led by Lieut. NORTON, Principal of the Institution, with a Melodian. The "String Band" was also present and contributed much to the entertainment. There are about 70 Orphans in the Homestead, which seems to be admirably managed.

OLD NEWSPAPERS.—There is attached to the report of the State Librarian for 1867, a partial list of the Newspapers in Pennsylvania which we have taken an interest in examing. The list is exclusive of the papers in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The oldest paper on the list is the York Republican, established in 1789.—The next oldest is the Franklin Repository, established in 1793. The next oldest is the German edition of the York Gazette, established in 1794. The next oldest is the Lancaster Intelligencer, established in 1799. The next in age is the Gettysburg SENTINEL, established in 1800, by the father of the senior Editor of the firm now owning the STAR AND SENTINEL, and the Norristown Defender, established in the same year. Our paper is now larger than either of our seniors, and is among the largest in the State. We may add, it is furnished at a lower rate, considering size and amount of reading matter, than almost any other.

We append some details from the list:

PENNSYLVANIA COLLEGE.—The final Examination of the Senior Class took place last week. The first honor was assigned to A. J. ERDMAN, of Macungie, Pa., the 2d to P. K. ERDMAN, of Centre Valley; the 3d to W. C. STOEVER, of Gettysburg; and the 4th divided between E. S. BREIDENBAUGH, of Gettysburg, and J. W. RICHARD, of Winchester, Va. The Latin Salutatory was assigned to W. C. STOEVER, the Greek Oration to A. J. ERDMAN, and the Valedictory to P. K. ERDMAN.

The closing exercises of the College and Seminary will take place the second week in August, as follows:

Aug. 9—Baccalaureate Address, by Rev. Dr. VALENTINE, in morning.
Aug. 9—Sermon before the young men's Christian Association of the College, evening.
Aug. 10—Memorial Discourse on President Baugher, by Rev. Dr. Morris, of Baltimore, evening.
Aug. 11—Holman Lecture on the Augsburg Confession, by Rev. Dr. Schmucker, of Gettysburg, afternoon.
Aug. 11—Address to Seminary Alumni, by Rev. S. A. Holman, of Phila., evening.
Aug. 12—Junior Exhibition, morning.
Aug. 12—Address before Philo Society, by Rev. Dr. Park, of Andover, afternoon.
Aug. 12—Address to College Alumni, by Rev. George Parson, of Milton, evening.
Aug. 13—Commencement Exercises.

The Directors of the Theological Seminary, will meet on Tuesday morning Aug. 11, and the Trustees of the College on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 12.

We understand that Prof. WILKEN has resigned the German Professorship, to take effect at the close of the present session.

DANGEROUS COUNTERFEITS.—Counterfeit $10 National Bank notes are in circulation. They are very well executed, and will deceive the majority of persons in whose hands they fall. The engraving is very fine, and the printing as perfect as it could be done. These notes are on the Central National Bank of New York, and on the Ohio National Bank of Cincinnati. Twenty dollar bills, altered from fives on the First National Bank of Boston are also in circulation.

ALL KINDS OF JOB WORK.—Having largely added to our facilities for Job Printing, we are now enabled with the aid of our Campbell Power Press, Gordon Jobber, and Hand Presses, to turn out promptly all kinds of Printing, from the smallest Card to the largest Poster, including Pamphlets, Speeches, Catalogues, Circulars, Programmes, &c. With our new Presses and enlarged assortment of type, we claim to have one of the best Printing offices in the State, and shall be glad at all times to see our friends.

A FULL ASSORTMENT.—The attention of Farmers, Builders, Contracters, and others, is invited to the large assortment of LUMBER of all kinds suitable for building purposes, to be found at Col. C. H. BUEHLER'S Lumber Yard, at corner of Carlisle street and Railroad depot, including Boards, Planks, Flooring, Siding, Laths, Pickets, Shingles, &c.—Also Posts, hewed and sawed, with prime Fencing Boards, white Pine and Hemlock. His stock is not only large, but his arrangements are such that he can sell at the very lowest cash rates. Also, constantly on hands Black-smith, Lime-Burners' and Stove COAL. tf

☞The Littlestown Savings Institution" has declared a dividend of 3 per cent. for last six months, payable on the 16th inst.

ACCIDENTS.—We regret to learn that Capt. E. MCGINLEY, of Fairfield, had the little finger of his right hand cut off by a Mowing machine on the 30th ult.

On the 22d ult., FRANCIS COLE, of Buchanan Valley, had the cap of his knee fractured at his saw-mill. He was engaged, with several of his hands, in getting out saw logs. To a very heavy one they had left a part of a limb, the easier to work it down a steep hill. When starting the log on a slide, Mr. COLE was at the front end of it. Moving more rapidly than was expected, the limb mentioned caught one of his legs just back of the knee, and carrying him with it some distance, struck the knee against a sapling, badly fracturing [illegible] Mr. C. is doing well.

Some ten days or two weeks ago, Mr. PETER FREY, of this place, one of our oldest citizens, while removing a ladder from one part of his premises to another, fell on his side, fracturing a rib, and producing general prostration of his system.—Dr. O'NEAL was called in.

Last week, a young son of PIUS SNEERINGER, of Conowago township, fell from a log at the building of a new barn, receiving a severe cut in his face and injuring one of his legs.

A son of JOHN HOSTETTER, of Union township, aged 15, last week met with an accident while assisting his father in cutting grass with a reaper. He was sitting on the reaper removing the grass, when the reaper struck a stump, thowing the boy over on the knives, cutting one of his legs severely and making an ugly gash in one of his feet.

On Monday last Mr. JACOB HANKY had his right hand badly injured by a circular saw at the Katalasyne Spring. The saw, which had been recently put up, was being adjusted, when by some means Mr. H's hand came in contact with it, cutting to the bone and nearly severing the hand.

YORK SPRINGS JULY 2d 1868.

Mr. EDITORS:—We were somewhat startled a few days since by the Information that Mr. E. HITESHEW had disposed of his Store Room to Mr. JOEL GRIEST for $4,500, and his entire Stock of Store Goods to Messrs. GRIEST and BOWERS.—We regret the loss of Mr. HITESHEW exceedingly, who will no doubt leave our town for an other and more extensive business place. He has been a popular and successful Merchant here for 11 years, and has made many warm friends during his stay among us.

Messrs. GRIEST and BOWERS are gentlemen of industrious habits, who will no doubt do a good business in that well established place. We predict for them a bright future.

AN OLD CITIZEN.

☞Beautiful and of Uniform Excellence. A well-known, safe, and speedy agent for restoring gray hair to its original color, for preventing the loss of the hair, for promoting its healthy growth and increasing its beauty, a gradual but certain cure for baldness, and an essential toilet requisite for all who prize that choicest gift of nature, a bountiful supply of hair: the above is sold by all who use Mrs. S. A. Allen's Improved (new style) Hair Restorer or Dressing, (in one bottle) Every Druggist sells it. Price One Dollar. July 10—1m

THE BEST THING YET.—The Medical Profession, after having thoroughly tested Speer's wines, have introduced them into their practice, on account of their purity.—His "Standard Wine Bitters" are equally as pure, and only need a trial to recommend them. Sold by Fred. Brown, corner of 5th and Chestnut streets, and Johnston, Holloway & Co., and other Druggists. 1t

"Why stand you thus amazed?" To see a person of your natural beauty with a head of dry, bristling, unkempt hair! Go purchase a bottle of "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative." It will transform your hair into beautiful glossy ringlets. Nothing so efficacious has ever been offered to the public.—Lowell Courier. 1t

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE.

This world renowned remedy for the unfailing cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sourness or Acidity of Stomach, Rising of Food, Flatulency, Lassitude, Weariness, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, finally terminating in Death.

Is urged upon the attention and trial of sufferers from this most horrible of all diseases. Dyspepsia shows its ravages in a thousand different forms, in fact, all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels, with all their complaints, such as Sick Headache, Hartburn, Depression, general sense of uneasiness and feeling that you are not well. Food distresses you, rises and sours on your stomach; breath is bad, skin at times flushed and hot; don't feel as if you could move or stir about, and worst of all, Indigestion or Constipation, are nothing more nor less than Dyspepsia.—Thousands upon thousands suffer and die this way and neither themselves or physicians know what ails them except that they are surely dying.

Reader we repeat it, this is all Dyspepsia. If you would have proof of our statement, if you would save yourselves and children from an early grave, if you would have health and energy and strength, again we beg you to try one bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure.

You will see how soon it will dispel your bad feelings and gloomy forebodings. How soon it will chase away any species of Dyspepsia. How soon it will give you new life and vigor, and how soon it will make a well man or woman of you. For your own sake, for the sake of everybody suffering, we beg, we entreat you to try it.

FOR LIVER COMPLAINT AND BILIOUS DERANGEMENTS,

It is a Sovereign Remedy, while for Fever and Ague, and all those diseases which are generated in a miasmic climate, it is a certain preventive and cure.

That its wonderful medicinal virtues may not stand alone upon our statement, we append a few unsolicited testimonials from those whose position in society and reputation as citizens will place their evidence beyond all question, and carry with them strength and conviction to the most incredulous.

MR. LESTER SEXTON, a wholesale merchant of 30 years, in Milwaukee, one of the most reliable and careful men in the State, says, under date

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Jan. 24, 1868.

MESSRS. C. G. CLARK & CO., New Haven, Conn.

Both myself and wife have used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and it has proved PERFECTLY satisfactory as a Remedy. I have NO hesitation in saying that we have received GREAT BENEFIT from its use.

Very Respectfully,
(Signed) LESTER SEXTON.

[From Rev. L. F. Ward, Avon, Lorain Co., O.]

MESSRS. STRONG & ARMSTRONG,

Gentlemen,—It gives me great pleasure to state that my wife has derived great benefit from the use of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. She has been for a number of years greatly troubled with Pyspepsia, accompanied by violent paroxysms of constipation which so prostrated her that she was all the while, for months, unable to do anything. She took, at your instance, Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and has derived GREAT BENEFIT FROM IT, and is now comparatively well. She regards this medicine as a great blessing.

Truly yours,
Jan. 13, 1868. L. F. WARD.

[From Rev. ISAAC AIKEN, Allegheny, Pa.]

JOSEPH FLEMMING, Druggist.
No. 84 Market Street. Pittsburgh.

SIR:—I take great pleasure in stating that, after having suffered from dyspepsia for about fifteen years, at some periods much more than others, I have been entirely cured by the use of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure.—My friends know that of late years my case has been an extreme one. I had great suffering from eating any kind of food, and on an average would vomit about one-third of my meals, in a sour indigestible mass. When the severe attacks would come, I would lose all strength and become utterly helpless. Some of the attacks would be so severe that for days together I would not retain any thing on my stomach, save a little dry toast and tea. For years I knew not what it was to pass five consecutive hours without intense pain. From the time I took the first dose of this medicine I ceased vomiting, gradually all soreness passed away, and flesh and strength returned, and ever since I have been able to eat any kind of food set upon the table. Six months have now passed without any symptoms of the return of the disease. My case was considered by all, even physicians, so marvelous, that for a time it was feared it might be fictitious; but I am now so well convinced, that I have not been merely relieved, but permanently cured, that I can conscientiously recommend Coe's Dyspepsia Cure to all victims of the Dyspepsia.

ISAAC AIKEN,
Late Pastor of the Beaver St. M. E. Church, Allegheny.

CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE.

NEW HAVEN, CT., June 1, 1867.

MESSRS. C. G. CLARK & CO.

GENTS:—Being anxious from the great benefit derived, to assist in spreading the fame of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, I would state my case. Something over a year ago, I had a violent attack of Diarrhea, which lasted eight weeks, during which time I employed three physicians, but without relief, until I tried Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. The first dose helped me; I took it three times a day for a week and was entirely cured; and I believe to-day that it saved my life. Being attacked in a similar way this season, I took one dose which put me all right. I would advise every family to keep it on hand ready for immediate use, in case of Summer or Bowel Complaints.

G. DUNN.

The above Mr. Dunn is in our employ, and we can vouch for the above statement being true.

E. ARNOLD & CO.

Coe's Dyspepsia Cure

Will be found invaluable in all cases of Diarrhea, Dysentary, Colic, Summer Complaints, Griping and in fact every disordered condition of the stomach.

THE GREAT

Conowago Phosphate.

PREPARED BY

C. W. BENSON, M. D.,

LITTLESTOWN, PA.

THE Conowago Phosphate is destined to stand at the head of American Fertilizers. It has already proved its SUPERIOR QUALITIES, and ample certificates of its high merits will soon be furnished to the public. The proprietors will spare no means or pains to make it a reliable and uniform article. It is superior to Peruvian Guano, because it is MORE LASTING IN ITS EFFECT and EQUAL TO IT ON THE FIRST CROP. It does not over-stimulate the soil, as most of the fertilizers in the market do, and leave the land after gathering the first crop in a worse condition than before using it, but it remains an active fertilizer in the soil, and continues year after year to show itself on every crop that is put in the land.

The Conowago Phosphate contains a large percentage of Ammonia and Phosphoric acid, which are essential elements to vegetable food. They either enter directly into the plant or prepare the alkalies in the soil to do so. The base of the Conowago Phosphate is PURE RAW BONE, completely and thoroughly dissolved without the use of any volatile agent.

One of the great advantages of the Conowago Phosphate is that it will dissolve the sand in the soil and set the silica free to be absorbed by the growing plant, which is a very important ingredient in giving firmness and strength to the stalk and grain.—It will prevent the falling and lodging of crops that are forced up by a wet and warm season, and will greatly facilitate the ripening of the grain and secure it against the rust.

Agencies are being established throughout the country wherever fertilizers are sold. We are not afraid to place it beside the best in the country.

Let all the farmers and planters make up their minds that they will try the Great Conowago Phosphate this fall.

Price fifty Dollars per ton.

BENSON & MAUS, Proprietors.

☞The Conowago Phosphate being made very fine, and thoroughly disintegrated, makes it convenient to use in the drills and mixes more freely with the soil. All farmers know the advantage of fine fertilizers. June 17, 1868.—tf

Star Agricultural Works.

THE ALBANY COTTON GIN MANUFACTURING CO., Albany, New York, Manufacturers of General Agricultural Machinery, comprising the celebrated "Star" Threshing Machines; "Star" Railway (or Endless Chain) and Lever Horse Powers; "Star" Cotton Gins and Condensers; Circular Cross-cut Saw-mills; Vegetable Cutters; Horse Hay Forks; Corn and Feed Mills; Power Corn Shellers; Dog Powers, &c., &c.

We wish to call the particular attention of Farmers to our celebrated "STAR" THRESHER AND CLEANER, which, as lately improved, we claim is far superior to any other machine now in market. It is compact and easily portable, simple in its construction, and therefore easy to operate by the most inexperienced, and will do its work with marvellous rapidity and perfection, and with comparatively the least demand upon the strength of the animals driving it.

We have made recent improvements in this machine by which we are enabled to thoroughly clean the grain under almost any combination of difficulties, and we are now using an entirely new and effective device for relieving the feeder of dust, thus making the operation of threshing as comfortable and safe as with the ordinary machines it is annoying and frequently destructive of health.

These Machines are made of suitable sizes for our "Star" Railway 2 Horse Power and for our "Star" Lever Powers for 4 and 6 horses.

For sale by our agents and dealers generally. For full particulars, send for our Illustrated Descriptive Circular and Price List. Correspondents will please address THE ALBANY COTTON GIN MANUFACTURING CO., P. O. Drawer 162, Albany, N. Y.

640 MILES

OF THE

UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD

Are now finished and in operation. Sixty miles of track have been laid this spring, and the work along the whole line between the Atlantic and Pacific States is being pushed forward more rapidly than ever before. More than twenty thousand men are employed, and it is not impossible that the entire track, from Omaha to Sacramento, will be finished in 1869 instead of 1870. The means provided are ample, and all that energy, men and money can do to secure the completion of this at the earliest possible day, will be done.

The UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY receive:

I.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of the right of way, and all necessary timber and other materials found along the line of its operations.

II.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, taken in alternate sections on each side of its road. This is an absolute donation, and will be a source of large revenue in the future.

III.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of United States Thirty-year Bonds, amounting to from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile, according to the difficulties to be surmounted on the various sections to be built.—The Government takes a second mortgage as security, and it is expected that not only the interest, but the principal amount may be paid in services rendered by the Company in transporting troops, mails, &c. The interest is now much more than paid in this way, besides securing a great saving in time and money to the Government.

IV.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of the right to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, to aid in building the road, to the same amount as the U. S. Bonds, issued for the same purpose, and no more. THE GOVERNMENT PERMITS the Trustees for the First Mortgage Bondholders to deliver the Bonds to the Company only as the road is completed, and after it has been examined by United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first-class Railroad, laid with a heavy Trail, and completely supplied with stations, turn-outs, car-shops, locomotives, cars, &c.

V.—A CAPITAL STOCK SUBSCRIPTION from the stock holders, of which over Eight Million Dollars have been paid in upon the work already done, and which will be increased as the wants of the Company require.

VI.—NET CASH EARNINGS on its Way Business, that already amount to MORE THAN THE INTEREST on the First Mortgage Bonds. These earnings are no indication of the vast through traffic that must follow the opening of the line to the Pacific, but they certainly prove that upon such a property, costing nearly three times their amount,

ARE SECURE BEYOND ANY CONTINGENCY

The Company have abundant means in their treasury and make no appeal to the public to purchase their Bonds, as the daily subscriptions are entirely satisfactory; but they submit that, for entire security and liberal returns, there is certainly no better investment in the market.

The Union Pacific Bonds are for $1,000 each, and have coupons attached. They have thirty years to run, and bear annual interest, payable on the first days of January and July at the Company's Office in the City of New ork, at the raYte of six per cent. in gold. The Principal is payable in gold at maturity. The price is 102, and at the present rate of gold, they pay a liberal income on their cost.

The Company believe that these Bonds, at the present rate, are the cheapest security in the market and reserve the right to advance the price at any time. Subscriptions will be received in New York.

Subscriptions will be received in Gettysburg, Pa., by the

FIRST NATIONAL BANK and GETTYSBURG NATIONAL BANK,

and in New York

At the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 NASSAU ST.,

AND BY

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 WALL St.,

And by the Company's advertised agents throughout the United States.

Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the Bonds will be sent free of charge by return express. Parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A PAMPHLET AND MAP FOR 1868 has just been published by the Company, giving fuller information than is possible in an advertisement, respecting the Progress of the Work, the Resources of the Country traversed by the Road, the Means for Construction, and the Value of the Bonds, which will be sent free on application at the Company's offices or to any of the advertised agents.

JOHN J. CISCO, Treasurer, New York.

DISEASES OF POULTRY.

The diseases of poultry, being taken in time, may not result in a serious malady, too often resulting in death; but procrastination is generally as fatal in poultry keeping as anything else.

The ailments of fowls may generally be traced to a variable temperature, to irregular, injudicious feeding, or to their being kept on ground which has become impure with their use of it. Judicious feeding, perfect cleanliness, and occasional removal to new ground, will, to a great extent, keep fowls healthy.

The following are the principal diseases among them:

Apoplexy, evidenced by inflamation of the brain.

Tracheal inflammation (or gapes), with parasitic worms in the windpipe.

Roup, which is highly infectious, and a very deadly disease, but if taken in time can be cured. The premonitory symptoms are a slight hoarseness, and catching in the breath as if from cold.

Moulting, with old fowls, is often so severe and so protracted, that it carries them off. The young are also victims of leg weakness and bad feathering.

Sickly fowls should always be removed from the fowl-house on the first symptoms of illness, as they are generally ill used by their companions—pecked at, and evidently become objects of dislike.

Apoplexy with fowls, as in human beings, is difficult to cure. It is generally the result of high feeding, and is most common among laying hens, which are sometimes found dead on the nest—the expulsive efforts required in laying being the immediate cause of the attack.

The only hope for cure consists in instant and copious bleeding, by opening a vein with a sharp-pointed penknife or lancet.—The largest of the veins seen on the underside of the wing, should be selected, and opened in a longitudinal direction, not cut across, and so long as the thumb is pressed on the vein at any point between the opening and the body, the blood will be found to flow freely. Light food and rest should be given the bird after the operation.

Gapes, in nine cases out of ten, are obtained from rain or impure water, and if a certain preventive (not cure) is desired, the use of camphor will be found the most efficient remedy. A small lump, about the size of a peanut kept constantly in the vessel from which the fowls drink, will make gapes unknown in your yard. Having carefully adopted this precaution this year more particularly, and having raised over two hundred chickens, without one case of gapes, I can testify that camphor is the only certain remedy. My neighbor T——, who is also a member of the American Poultry Society, and who has equal and if not superior advantages to mine for poultry rearing, has lost three-fourths of his chickens by gapes, which I attribute to his use of rain water and non-use of camphor.

Rain water will, after having stood some time, be found, by examination under a microscope, to contain worms identical with those taken from the throat of a chicken suffering under gapes.

Roup, if treated at the outset, may be cured by feeding, twice a day, with stale crusts of bread soaked in strong ale. Dry housing and cleanliness are indispensible.

Fowls sometimes waste away without any apparent disorder. In such cases a teaspoonful of cod-liver oil per day will often be found a most efficacious remedy.

Scouring or diarrhœa is caused by the too abundant use of relaxing food. Cayenne pepper, or chalk, or both, mixed with meal or boiled rice, check the complaint.

Leg weakness is generally caused by the size and weight of the body being more than the legs can bear. It is shown by the bird resting on the first joint. Being entirely the result of weakness, the best treatment is that which gives general strength and stamina to the sufferer. Tincture of iron, say five drops to a saucer of water must be given.—[Essay by S. M. Sanders, read at the meeting of the American Poultry Society.

CHERRIES—CAUSES OF FAILURE.

Although the cherry is one of the most valued fruits, for some reason which I cannot explain, it does not appear to have attracted the same attention on the part of cultivators, which has been given to other small fruits. We all know that in its season it is prized as highly as the strawberry or raspberry, and for general family use, whether in its freshly matured, dried or preserved state, it is decidedly superior to either—such, at least, is my opinion. Now, why is it that we have comparatively so few really good cherries? It may be that farmers have not the patience to await the period required for young trees to come into bearing; or it may be that those living remote from market facilities do not deem the fruit of sufficient importance to induce them to invest in the purchase of the better varieties of trees, or, what perhaps is more reasonable, want of success which has so frequently attended cherry culture may have disheartened them.

But whatever the cause, I am one of those who believe it will "never do to give it up so," and with the hope of obviating in part one of the causes of failure, I would direct attention to a fact adverted to in the April number of the Journal of Horticulture, in which the writer takes the sensible ground that excessive manuring, which causes too rapid growth, the bursting of the bark, the exudation of gum, and the subsequent death of the limbs on which this occurs, has become too prevalent—that cherry trees may be killed with kindness, and that if planted in locations where they will remain in grass, the difficulties named will to a great exten be obviated.

This is my experience exactly. Some years ago, we had on the old homestead a number of Heart Cherry trees, which were in grass, and which had never received any manure, until, in an unfortunate hour, the ground was plowed, and with the hope of increasing the already bountiful crops, we applied an extra coating of manure, and continued the practice for two or three years in succession. The results were precisely similar to those referred to. Our trees began to decline in yield and vigor, and we came to the conclusion that we were about to loose them. Without suspecting the cause, we for several years ceased our applications of manure, allowing the grass to grow as formerly. To our great surprise and gratification, the trees began to assume a more healthful appearance, the bark ceased to crack, the exudations of gum did not occur, and, superadded to these encouraging signs, we got good fruit again and plenty of it.

I leave it to your readers to determine for themselves, whether it was the extra manuring or the plowing that did the damage.—My opinion is that both had something to do with it, and the evidence given by the writer quoted corroborates this opinion.—EDGAR STOKELY, in Fruit Culturist.

ONDITS.—Youatt, the well-known veterinary surgeon, who has been bitten eight or ten times by rabid animals, says that crystal of the nitrate of silver rubbed into the wound will positively prevent hydrophobia in the bitten person or animal.——The noise of cannon has been heard a distance of more than two hundred and fifty miles; by applying the ear to the solid earth.——The Scientific American pooh-poohs the old notion that "stub twist" gun barrels made out of old horse nails are better than if made out of new nails or any other iron of the same original toughness.

THE EAGLE LIVERY, SALE & EXCHANGE STABLES.

Washington Street, Gettysburg, Pa.
ADJOINING THE EAGLE HOTEL.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the public that he has opened a new LIVERY, SALE AND EXCHANGE STABLE in this place, and is prepared to offer superior accommodations in this line. He has provided himself with Buggies, Carriages, Hacks, Light Wagons, &c., of the latest styles, sufficient to meet the public demand. His horses are all good, without spot or blemish, and perfectly reliable—none of your "old cripples," but all of the "2.40" order.

Riding parties can always be accommodated and comfortable equipments furnished.

Parties, large or small, can get just what they want on the most accommodating terms.

Visitors to the Battle-field politely attended to, and reliable drivers furnished if desired.

Parties conveyed to and from the Depot upon the arrival and departure of every train.

Horses bought, sold, or exchanged, and always a chance for bargains given. Our motto is "fair play and no gouging."

Particular attention paid to furnishing Vehicles and Hacks for Funerals.

We flatter ourselves that by charging moderately and by furnishing superior accommodations, we cannot fail to please every one who patronises our establishment.

ALL AROUND THE WORLD!

The First Premium of a Silver Medal was awarded Barrett's Hair Restorative,
By the N. H. State Agricultural Society, at its Fair holden in Nashau, Sept. 20, 1866.

BARRETT'S VEGETABLE HAIR RESTORATIVE restores Gray Hair to its natural color. Promotes the growth of the Hair. Changes the roots to their original organic action. Eradicates Dandruff and Humors. Prevents Hair falling out. Is a superior Dressing. It contains no injurious ingredients, and is the most popular and reliable article throughout the East, West, North and South.

THE GREAT CHOLERA PREVENTATIVE.

I.
X. 1866. L.
THE GREAT
Zingari Bitters.

THIS WONDERFUL REMEDY was discovered and introduced about twenty years ago by Dr. S. Cheopsus, an eminent Egyptian physician.

He had long seen and felt the want of some remedy which would strike at the root of disease, and so prevent much of the suffering which the human family was then compelled to endure.

This great question was presented to his mind every day in vivid colors as he moved among the sick and dying, and observed the inefficiency of nearly all the remedies then in use. Thus he was led to think and experiment; and after ten years' study and labor, he presented to his fellow-man the wonderful Zingari Bitters. The effect of this preparation in the prevention and cure of disease was so marvellous and astonishing, that the most flattering marks of royal favor were bestowed upon him who discovered it.—His name was placed upon the Roll of Nobles, and a gold medal with the following inscription—Dr. S. Cheopsus, the Public Benefactor—was presented to him by the Viceroy.

The preparation has been used in several epidemics of cholera, both as a preventive and curative measure, and with such great success, that it has been introduced into nearly all the general hospitals of the old world.

The old saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, applies with marvellous force to cholera, and therefore any remedy that will protect us against this terrible disease should be freely and persistently used.

All pathologists now agree that the cholera poison acts on the system through the blood, and that any combination which acts on the excretory organs, and keeps them in working order, must prevent a sufficient accumulation of the poison to exert its terrible effects on the organism. This is true not only of cholera, but of nearly all other maladies, especially the different forms of fever.

The Zingari Bitters is just such a remedy as the above conditions require. It acts on the organs of excretion and secretion, keeping up a perfect balance between them. This Bitters is composed entirely of roots and herbs, so nicely concocted that every organ is acted upon and put in tone. Its taste is pleasant and its effects prompt and lasting.

Numerous cases of the following diseases have been cured by it: Cholera, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Scrofula, Typhoid and Typhus Fever, Fever, Ague, Nervous Debility, Anaemia, Female Irregularities, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Colic, &c.

Price One Dollar per quart Bottle.
